United States May Send Naval Planes To Aid in Search

Offer Made Through Consul to Hon. S. F. Tolmie—Ottawa Is Advised—Three Machines Leave Vancouver, But Two Are Forced Back—Joerss Wings Northward

No News of Renahan or Burke Parties

THROUGH G. A. Bucklin, United States Consul in Victoria, the United States Government has offered to dispatch a fleet of naval seaplanes from Bremerton air base to join in the search for Robin Renahan and "Fat" Burke, lost in Northern British Columbia. The offer was made by Mr. Bucklin, on behalf of the Government, to Hon. R. Randolph Bruce, Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, who communicated the generous offer to Premier Tolmie.

The Premier at once telegraphed to Hon. Donald Sutherland, Minister of National Defence, Ottawa, for permission to have the offer accepted. As the planes at Bremerton are naval craft, it is necessary to secure permission from Ottawa for them to enter Canada.

As soon as Premier Tolmie receives reply to his wire he will communicate with Mr. Bucklin. The Premier expresses deep appreciation of the generous nature of the offer.

Two other planes, owned by the Pacific International Airways, which took off from Vancouver today to fly by the inland route to Atlin, were compelled to return to the city. Speeding up the Fraser Valley, these two machines, piloted by E. J. Burke and Harry Slunt, encountered extremely hazardous weather conditions near Yale, and reluctantly were forced to turn the noses of their machines back to Vancouver.

REACHES PRINCE GEORGE
W. A. Joerss, field commander of the search planes, was meanwhile pushing steadily northward. Joerss, it was reported, hopped off from Prince George today, with the intention of making Taku Landing or Dease Lake, if possible. He flew from Vancouver to Prince George in four hours on Sunday.

FLYING OFFICER H. Phinney and Flying Officer C. R. Dunlap, Royal Canadian Air Force pilots, in a wireless message from Alert Bay on Monday night, stated that the favorable weather conditions tomorrow they expected to continue their northward hop to Prince Rupert.

Search headquarters announced Monday night that no new reports have been received from the North.

LINKS EMPIRE PARLEY WITH AIR DISASTER

Squadron Leader Booth Tells Inquiry That R-101 Was Not Ready

FLIGHT WAS SPEEDED AND JUDGMENT BIASED

LONDON, Nov. 10.—The public inquiry into the disaster of the British airship R-101 today heard testimony linking the ship's ill-fated flight with the Imperial Conference in session in London at that time. Squadron Leader R. S. Booth, commander of Great Britain's first airship, R-100, expressed the belief that officers of the R-101 permitted their judgment to be biased by knowledge of the wishes of Lord Thomson, air minister, in the crash, and others, that the flight to India be made while statements of the Empire were deliberating.

"If the conference had not been on," he said, "I feel that they would have insisted on more details."

TELLS OF GAS LOSS
Describing a trial flight of the R-101 in which he had taken part, he said the loss of gas was "most abnormal." He said he would not have attempted a fifty-hour flight in the condition she was in at that time.

He recalled that the R-100 on one of her trial flights developed defects after forty-five hours in the air, and pointed out the R-101 had only sixteen hours of trial after the alterations which preceded her start to India.

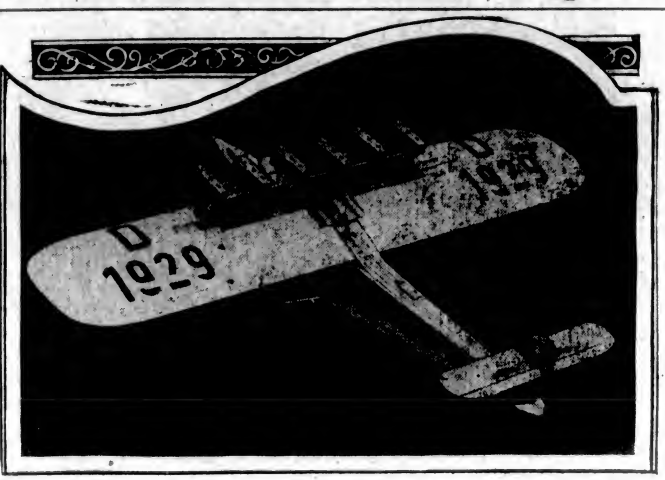

P. McWade, chief inspector at the Cardington airport, testified that while the R-101 was riding out a storm at her mooring mast a gas-bag valve was found open.

At the close of the day's session the inquiry adjourned until December 3 to permit Sir John Simon and his two colleagues, who form the court, to sift the mass of material now available.

COMMITTEE TO ASK LIMITATION IN CONSCRIPTION

League Commission Overcomes Difficult Phase in Draft Convention

GENEVA, Nov. 10.—A plan for limiting the period of service of army conscripts was adopted by the League of Nations Preparatory Disarmament Commission today, thus disposing of one of the most difficult articles in the draft convention under consideration. The time limit remains to be fixed by the general conference.

After protracted debate over the merits of establishment of a universal top figure for all contracting parties and a proposal that each state fix its own maximum, the commission voted to establish a universal maximum and a maximum for each nation.

ARTICLE ANNOUNCED
The article in the preparatory draft reads:

"In each contracting state having the conscription system, the total period of service which the annual contingent is compelled to serve, whether for land, sea or air forces, shall not exceed the figures accepted by each contracting party, and in no case shall the figures exceed—months." The blank remains to be filled in.

While technically disposing of this article, the commission, however, did not solve the political problems involved. When the General Disarmament conference meets, the Germans again will demand that a limit be placed on trained reserves—a matter the commission declined to do last Saturday.

Also when the question arises of fixing definitely the maximum periods of service, there will be difficulty in satisfying the defence requirements of each nation.

SEVENTY PERSONS HURT BY TORNADO; $1,000,000 LOSS

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Nov. 10.—A hurricane swept the Panama plantations in the Lacacha zone yesterday, injuring seventy persons and causing property loss totaling $1,000,000. Reports said 36,000 banana trees were destroyed, with all their fruit, on the Cerinto plantation, owned by the Standard Fruit & Steamship Company. Another plantation, producing 3,000 stems of bananas weekly, also lost all its trees, reports said. Buildings were blown down and many persons were hurt by crashing timbers.

LONDON PAYS ITS TRIBUTE TO WAR DEAD

PRINCE MAKES APPEAL FOR VETERANS' FUND

King George to Participate in Short Religious Ceremonies This Morning

LONDON, Nov. 10.—The crowds which stood this afternoon to watch the parade of the Lord Mayor's show, paused on the way home tonight to pay their own Armistice Day tribute at the cenotaph in Whitehall, and late this evening there was still a long line winding towards the shrine of the nation's war dead.

Not in recent years has there been such an early demonstration to the memory of the men who fell in the war. Many in the crowd were the blind, the maimed, the aged, the widowed, the bereaved, the veterans, the young men, the mothers, the wives, the children, the friends, the neighbors, the countrymen, the world.

BROADCASTS APPEAL
The Prince of Wales tonight broadcast a special appeal in aid of this veterans' fund.

"The war cost us 1,000,000 of our finest lives," he said, "and left us with a responsibility to their survivors which will remain while there is a man or a dependent needing our help."

"Our country is beset by unemployment and ex-service men, because of war disabilities, advancing age or lost opportunities are fighting a losing battle in the struggle for existence. As they served us faithfully in the country's greatest hour of need, so let us serve them in theirs."

TWO MINUTES' SILENCE
The King, the Prince of Wales and the Duke of York will participate tomorrow in short religious ceremonies at the cenotaph and will observe the two minutes' silence, beginning at 11 o'clock.

Railroad Men Are Seeking Higher Wages

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Expiring wage agreements with English railroads expire at midnight, tomorrow, and the unions, representing upwards of 1,000,000 workmen, are preparing to submit demands for higher pay.

At the end of the strike of 1926, the unions agreed to a truce, during which time neither would move for a change in the wage scale until the truce expired.

Now the railroads seek a reduction in the strength of decreased revenue and the unions are discussing higher minimum wages and guarantees of work for the shop crafts. There is no likelihood, however, that service will be suspended.

No specific date for a general conference has been set, but it is probable that discussions will begin next week.

Viscount and Lady Willingdon, Sir George Perley, Acting Prime Minister, Sir Robert Borden and William Clark were among those at luncheon when the fire broke out in an attic. They were forced to leave the clubhouse. Most of the members' effects were saved before the blaze got beyond control.

Elephant Starts Stampede At Lord Mayor's Pageant

LONDON, Nov. 10.—There might easily have been a disastrous finish to the Lord Mayor's show today. This annual perambulation of the city always comprises an extraordinary mixture of civic pomp, and a circus procession included four elephants out of humor. It is stated that students of St. Bartholomew's Hospital upset a plaster tiger, and this sight of his old enemy of the jungle caused the beast, who had stood with patience the blaring of brass bands and other noises, to lose his manners. He surged through a dense crowd with all the symptoms of being out of control and a wild stampede followed.

DOMINIONS TO HAVE COMPLETE CONTROL OVER OWN SHIPPING

Imperial Conference Heads Make Important Decision Regarding Maritime Jurisdiction—Repeal of Colonial Laws Validity Act Dependent Upon Canadian Provinces

Parliaments Must Unanimously Agree on Change of Succession

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Abolition of the Colonial Laws Validity Act; complete control of its shipping by each Dominion, and recognition of citizenship status by each part of the Empire, as well as general citizenship in the Commonwealth of British nations, were important recommendations made today by the Empire Premier. These will receive further consideration at the plenary session of the conference.

The end of the day found the Premier with all their constitutional recommendations completed for the approval of the plenary session of the conference.

When they have thus been approved, the recommendations will become formal decisions of the Imperial Conference.

NO RECOMMENDATION
Last on the day's list came the issue of appeals to the Privy Council. But here the Premier made no recommendation, whatever. There will thus be no expression of opinion by the conference itself and the status quo will remain.

Today's decisions confirm, in all essential particulars, the recommendations of the 1926 conference on the operation of Dominion laws. The Colonial Laws Validity Act of 1858 will be repealed and thus no act passed by a Dominion Parliament will be void on the ground that it is repugnant to the law of England. But to this recommendation, it is pointed out, is a condition attached. In Canada, that condition is that the Dominion Parliament should make a recommendation to the commission which studied the operation of Dominion laws went farther than this recommendation by inference, might be interpreted as giving the Dominion Parliament powers to amend the British North America Act.

CONSULT PROVINCES

Premier Taschereau, of Quebec, and Premier Ferguson, of Ontario, held the provinces should have been consulted before the commission made such an important decision. Continued on Page 2, Column 4

RT. HON. ARTHUR MEIGHEN GIVES CONCEPT OF WORLD IMPERILED BY STRIFE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, former Prime Minister of Canada, as chief speaker before the Good Will Congress of the World Alliance for International Friendship, in unequivocal language tonight expressed his concept of a world imperiled by war.

He said: "Civilization must end, or war will end civilization." "War has lost its efficacy; it can only bring defeat and despair for both conquerors and conquered."

"The policy of the governments is dominated by fear."

SUBSTITUTE ESSENTIAL
"There has to be found a substitute for armaments; something else that will bring security not only to one, but to all."

"The one supremely important task before our world today is to bring about an organization against war... and such an organization cannot be brought about without the United States. I despair of finding a substitute for armaments except in a universal association of nations."

"The hand of force to hold in check an offender (whether an individual or a nation) is the very essence of a covenant of peace. It is a principle by which the integrity of a nation is assured and the reign of law sustained."

INTERNATIONAL LAW
He was skeptical as to the essential value of international law. Way not have all agree to banish air-planes and submarines, the bombing of cities and poison gas as weapons? "Well," he said, "perhaps it might be done on paper."

Mr. Meighen was today presented to President Hoover by Mr. Hume Wrong, charge d'affaires of the Canadian Legation. Later he was a guest of Sir Ronald Lindsay at the new British Embassy.

Elephant Starts Stampede At Lord Mayor's Pageant

LONDON, Nov. 10.—There might easily have been a disastrous finish to the Lord Mayor's show today. This annual perambulation of the city always comprises an extraordinary mixture of civic pomp, and a circus procession included four elephants out of humor. It is stated that students of St. Bartholomew's Hospital upset a plaster tiger, and this sight of his old enemy of the jungle caused the beast, who had stood with patience the blaring of brass bands and other noises, to lose his manners. He surged through a dense crowd with all the symptoms of being out of control and a wild stampede followed.

Many women and children were thrown down and some were so seriously bruised that they were taken to the hospital. None, however, remained there for long.

In other ways, the show was voted the best for years.

The new Lord Mayor, Sir Phene Neale, is a great believer in the Empire, and his retinue today contained many depictions of the old-time romantic side of life overseas. Probably next in popularity to the elephants was a covered wagon, such as adorned the Northwest of Canada a century ago, accompanied by Indians with tomahawks and everything else a boy has ever heard of.

The crowd cheered itself hoarse as the glittering parade moved through close-packed lines of spectators, who dispersed only when the sun came down on the end of a glorious day.

Dr. Wood's Pneumonia Left Her With a Terrible Cough

Mrs. A. W. Power, 581 Jane St., Toronto, Ont., writes:—"Eight years ago I had a very serious illness. I had a bad attack of pleurisy and pneumonia and was six months in bed. This illness left me with a terrible cough. I tried several cough medicines, but they did not seem to have any effect. One day my mother brought me home a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and after I had taken several more I noticed my cough gradually leaving me. Since that time if ever my husband and children or myself have had colds I always get 'Dr. Wood's'." Price 50c a bottle; large family size 65c; at all druggists or dealers.

RECEPTION IS ENTHUSIASTIC

Packed House Greet McLeod Players on Opening Night at Royal

A FINE PERFORMANCE

Many a gala performance has been given in the great metropolitan theatres with less signs of enthusiasm on the part of the audience than was accorded the Gordon McLeod Players' premier at the Royal Victoria Theatre last evening. "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife." The theatre was packed from orchestra stalls to topmost gallery with a holiday audience, which in no uncertain way expressed its joy at the return of the popular stock company. Miss Lillian Christie, who was last season's leading lady, also was singled out for special marks of favor. Her first appearance in Act One caused prolonged applause, which interrupted the progress of the play much more pleasantly than the numerous tardily-arriving seat-holders. Her advent had an electric significance in the relations of audience and actors, seeming to serve the purpose of an unimpeachable introduction between the people on both sides of the footlights, and from this point onwards everyone was on the most friendly footing. This feeling found further outlet in the welcome accorded Miss Peggy Burnand and George Durham, two other members of the former company, and Gordon McLeod himself, who came on the stage after the last curtain, and, in response to persistent hand-clapping, made a short speech in which he expressed his own and the company's appreciation of the cordial reception given them on their return. The last glimpse the audience had of Miss Christie she was standing, surrounded by baskets of flowers, bowing her acknowledgments to the clamorous plaudits of enthusiastic admirers.

A SCINTILLATING COMEDY. For their opening play the company could not have chosen better than they did. "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife" is a scintillating farce-comedy, adapted from Saverio's original French play by Carlton Andrews. The dialogue is clever, the plot absurd, yet possible, and the interest and suspense is sustained by the modern touch introduced in the lightly satirical psychological study.

The play, briefly, tells the story of how the beautiful "Lillian Christie" out-psychologues the boastful and wealthy banker, John Brandon (Robert A'Dair) who, the relic of seven divorced wives, believes himself to be an outstanding example of that rare avia, the practical psychologist who is able to read, outwit, and discard with handsome alimony the ladies of whom he warbles in due course after luring them into his modern Bluebeard's domain. The last act of this brilliant comedy shows just how "Monna" quitted her Bluebeard. It is cleverly done, and in the modern way, and the fact that the settings of the two last scenes are charming, particularly the bedroom scene, serves only to enhance the attractiveness of the denouement.

THE COMPANY. As "Monna" Bluebeard's Eighth Wife, Miss Christie, as expected, was complete mistress of the role. She was so charming, so attractively groomed, so completely sophisticated and animated from the very moment of her advent to the stage, that no reasoning was required to understand why John Brandon had so suddenly and with such ease made up his mind to marry her. On the other hand, Robert A'Dair is a fine figure of a man, as the Scots folk say, and was handsomely well equipped with the "Monna" for the little difficulty in accepting his declaration, particularly when it was supported by the promise of 400,000 francs alimony if and when the contingency should arise. Mr. A'Dair played the part with delightful directness, blunt simplicity, and brutal compulsion, which left no hint of weakness or indecision in his conception of the character. He was universally recognized as a very genuine asset to the company.

Of the secondary roles an especially important one fell to Patricia Ludlow as "Albert de Marceau," a monied fool, whose thoroughly gentlemanly code is rather off by his slithering footings. The part is one of the genuinely innocuous and entertaining kinds which require much real skill to play. Mr. Ludlow made it memorably funny.

IMMACULATE MAKE-UP. Willie Watson was gay, sharply cut, and immaculate as the Marquis de Briac, father of two marriageable daughters, including the beautiful Monna, and the elegant, elegant which he shared Monna's ambition to inherit the 400,000-franc alimony adds another note of levity to the first act. The role of the younger daughter, Lucienne, is played with definiteness by Peggy Burnand, to whom fall many witty lines. In Lily Maylon the company has more promising material for many characters. Her playing of Miss George was clear and comprehensible. Hugh Symington played a very brief part as John Brandon's secretary, and George Durham had a short but laughable appearance as the detective, Armand.

Mayor Anson came on the

The Sankey constitutional committee of the Imperial Conference, Hon. Maurice Dupre, Solicitor-General of Canada, supported their view.

The Empire Premiers today concurred and ruled the provinces should be consulted.

The repealing bill will not now be presented to the British Parliament until the resolutions requesting it are passed by the Provincial Parliaments of the Dominion. It is suggested these resolutions should be reported to the United Kingdom Government by July 1, or, at the latest, August 1, 1931.

When today's further recommendations are made fully effective, the net result will be: Each Dominion will have full legislative powers over all ships in its territorial waters or engaged in its coasting trade, and over its own ships, both interterritorially and extraterritorially.

Any alteration in the law touching the succession to the throne will be made only by the consent of all seven Parliaments of the British Commonwealth.

The right of each Dominion to define its own nationals, as has already been done by Canada, is recognized.

The Empire Premiers recommended, however, that there should be no alteration in the status of common British citizenship except after consultation and agreement between the different members of the Commonwealth.

WIFE-NATIONALITY
The Premiers today favored legislation to provide that, if the national law of a wife causes her to lose her nationality on her marriage with an alien, this loss of nationality shall be conditional upon her acquiring her husband's new nationality. Legislation would also provide that the nationality of a husband shall not involve a change in the nationality of a wife except with her consent.

These recommendations are in line with certain provisions of the report of The Hague Conference. But the Empire Premiers are not prepared to recommend that a British woman, on her marriage, should be permitted to retain her British nationality indefinitely.

Fire Destroys Packing House; $105,000 Loss

LEWISTON, Idaho, Nov. 10.—Fire early this morning destroyed the packing house owned by Steve Hettor at Lewiston Orchard, a suburb of this city.
The building, a two-story frame structure, all the equipment, and 40,000 boxes of apples were destroyed, at a loss estimated by the owner at $105,000. There are no fire-fighting facilities at the plant.
The packing house, which is operated in connection with one of the largest apple orchards in Northern Idaho, will be rebuilt, according to Hettor.
He was so dumb that he went swimming with a pair of suitcases because he thought a pair of trunks would be too expensive.

ARMISTICE DAY WELL OBSERVED

Impressive Service Is Held at Sandwick—Large Parade From Courtenay

MANY WREATHS PLACED

COURTENAY, Nov. 10.—A very strong appeal was made for service men and their dependents at a platform of the Canadian Scottish from Courtenay, preceded by their pipe band, the killed uniforms lending smartness and a touch of color amidst the dull November drizzle, over 200 hundred veterans, followed by nearly a mile of cars marched, many under physical difficulties, to pay homage to their comrades who made the supreme sacrifice, and to participate in the service.

THE SERVICE

The opening prayers were led by Rev. G. L. Bourdillon, vicar of Courtenay and Sandwick. Singing of hymns by the large gathering added solemnity to the hour. The scriptural passage for the occasion, read by Rev. A. W. Corker, vicar of Courtenay, was the fortieth chapter of Isaiah. This was followed by "The Piper's Lament" and Last Post, and then the "silence," which at its close was broken by the Reveille. During the singing of "O Valiant Hearts" many wreaths were placed at the foot of the column, which was guarded by men of the Canadian Scottish with arms reversed and heads bowed. Among those who placed wreaths were Capt. G. R. Bates, president of the local branch of the Canadian Legion; Mayor MacIntyre, representing the city of Courtenay; Mrs. Harwood-Ash, for the Courtenay District Women's Institute; representatives of the Girl Guides, the Wolf Cubs, and many firms and individuals.

THE ADDRESS

Rev. Mr. Lees, in an inspiring address, made a strong appeal for the remembrance for the men who had served and who by reason of their service had lost their hold on their former occupations, who had got out of touch and who had found it impossible to regain their former status. He paid a glowing tribute of gratitude and appreciation to these men and to those who did not come back; also to their parents and dependents.

After the singing of "O God, Our Help in Ages Past," and the National Anthem, the parade returned to the city, the bands of the killeds and the Courtenay brass band playing alternately the way. Capt. G. R. Bates thanked the officers and men of the visiting platoon for coming up and the ex-service men of the district for such a splendid turnout.

WINNIPEG BANDITRY HAS BUSY WEEK-END

Five Hold-Ups Net Gunmen Slightly More Than $200—Lady Cashier Is Robbed

WINNIPEG, Nov. 10.—A busy but lean week-end for Winnipeg banditry netted gunmen, believed by police to be members of one gang, slightly more than $200. Five hold-ups yesterday and early today yielded as much as $100 in one case and as little as nothing in another.

A lone bandit, who held up the lady cashier of a downtown shoe store, secured $80. Joe Zampieri, taxi driver, contributed only $2 to a passenger who suddenly ordered him to stop and then confronted him with a revolver. From a till in the Canadian National Telegraph office, an armed man secured $14 after holding up the only dispatcher on duty. Three men robbed Julius Frits and his wife, aged Henry Avenue couple, of $100 after forcing them into the cellar of their home; but John Forbes, garage owner, allowed two men to go through his pockets and search his office without fear or loss. He hadn't any money with him.

KENORA, Ont., Nov. 10.—Faithfully a half-mad Alredale pup waits tonight in wind-swept Heenan's Point for a master who does not come. His owner is Joseph Chapleau, believed to have perished in the waters of Big Stone Bay with Frank Basovall, Joseph and John Danik Residents of Kenora, the quartette set out on a hunting trip eight days ago by boat and did not return.

Coats and blankets found on the shore where the little dog waits have been identified as belonging to the missing men, and searchers are convinced that the hunters' boat was overturned in a lake storm. Preparing to abandon the quest, a search party sought to capture the starving dog, but it fled into the shore bush, refusing to leave the shore where the coats and blankets were cast up by the waves.

Leviathan of Other Days

AN interesting relic of earlier times has been brought to light in the shape of a photograph taken by Maynard, pioneer photographer, of Governor Seymour's steam yacht, Leviathan, shown above. This, probably the first steam yacht in British Columbia waters, was regarded as a saucy craft when she arrived here from the Orient, where she was built. Lieutenant Talbot, of H.M.S. Sturtel, the flagship at Esquimalt, was loaned to the Leviathan as master, while similarly the navy occasionally provided an engineer and crew. On June 14, 1864, it was recorded in The Colonist that the vessel had arrived from New Westminster, having on board Admiral Kingcome. She made Esquimalt three minutes too late for the admiral to receive a salute from the warships stationed there. The salute was accordingly given the following morning. The next day, June 15, the Leviathan, under Lieutenant Talbot, with a midshipman second in command, and a crew of three in addition to the engineer, and a Mr. Fowler, of Nanaimo, steamed for

Speakers of Trade Delegation Dwell on Resources of Country

ACHIEVEMENTS OF ENGINEERS NOTED

KYOTO, Japan, Nov. 10.—The city of Kyoto welcomed the delegates of the trade mission of the Canadian Chambers of Commerce here over the week-end. The governor, mayor and president of the Chamber of Commerce tendered the delegates a luncheon.

The Mayor of Kyoto expressed his pleasure at the opportunity of meeting the Canadian representatives. He pictured Kyoto's cultural and industrial development.

CULTURAL CENTRE
John M. Imrie, chairman of the delegation, expressed the thanks of his compatriots. He recalled that Kyoto was noted for its fine arts, and as a cultural centre, and referred to its contribution to international peace through the conference of Pacific relations last year.

H. V. Haight, of Montreal, gave an address on the development of Canadian engineering. The building of the Intercolonial and Canadian Pacific Railways, and later the group now known as the Canadian National, was described by the speaker.

GREAT GRAIN PORTS

Mr. Haight dealt with the enormous facilities required by the national ports. In 1928 Montreal delivered 21,000,000 bushels of grain, more than the total delivered by the eight leading United States ports. Vancouver had shipping capacity for loading fourteen vessels at once at the rate of 125,000 bushels per hour.

The waterway system, consisting of the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River, together with its canals and future possibilities, was described.

In regard to mining, Mr. Haight remarked that Canada came first in the production of nickel and asbestos, producing in each case about four-fifths of the world total. In gold production, Canada stood third, South Africa being first and the United States second. But Canada was expected soon to pass the United States.

UNDER OCEAN MINING

A notable coal mine was one of the collieries of the Dominion Coal Company, at Glace Bay, Nova Scotia, which extended under the ocean three miles, and yet was the driest of the company's mines.

There were many engineering features of note in the enterprises of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company of Canada, at Trail, B.C. The solution of the problem of separating the various metals in the complex ores of the Sullivan mine of this company was an outstanding achievement.

AIRPLANE EMPLOYED

The airplane had opened up Northern Canada to mining. One company was successful last summer in locating an important deposit of ore in the Copper Mine River, which flows into the Arctic Ocean. One season's work with the aid of airplanes had revealed what one hundred years of exploration by the older methods had failed to find.

On the farms machinery was increasing acreage per man. Mr. Haight reviewed Canada's major water power developments. The association of large water power and extensive forest land has resulted in a very large Canadian production of pulp and paper, especially newsprint. Canada was destined to occupy in the future a very prominent place in the chemical industry. Mr. Haight believed, and he reviewed developments to show the position already attained.

German Trade Unions Are Dissatisfied With Final Decision in Wage Dispute

By OTTO BROCK
(Copyright, 1930, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service.)

BERLIN, Nov. 10.—The trade unions are greatly dissatisfied with the final award in the wage dispute of the Berlin metal industry, according to which workers' wages will be cut by 3 per cent from November 16 to January 16, and then on by another 3 per cent for adults, and another 3 per cent for juvenile and female workers.

There is no legal way to bring about a revision of this award, handed down by a special court, under the presidency of former Minister of Labor Dr. Heinrich Brauns, until June 30, 1931, when it can be renounced upon one month's notice.

The importance of this decision cannot be overestimated. It decrees the first considerable wage cut for a large number of workers since the inflation and is a signal for industrialists all over Germany to renounce wage agreements at the earliest possible date. For an example, the Berlin metal industry clearly demonstrates that it can rely on Government help in an attempt to reduce wages.

PLAN GREATER CUTS

As the metal workers' wages have been rising more slowly than those of other industrial workers for the last five years, it is probable that the Government will try to put through even greater cuts in other industries. Well informed industrialists believe that wages in the heavy industries, for instance, will be reduced by as much as 10 per cent.

Politically the wage policy of the present Government bears great dangers, as it will render it more difficult for the Social Democrats to support the Cabinet. The Social Press Service sharply attacks the Government's attitude, saying that the confidence of the labor class in the special arbitration court has been deceived. The only good it recognizes in the award is that it expires next Summer, "when we shall fight for higher wages."

REDUCE LIVING COSTS

The Government itself seems to feel that this award can only be justified if the retail prices will be cut materially. Efforts in this direction are being made and the Ministry of Economics is trying hard to reduce living costs. So far its success has been rather small and the retail prices have been decreased by less than 2 per cent for the last three weeks.

It cannot be denied, however, that the downward trend in the retail price curve has become stronger recently, although there is little chance that the wage cuts will be compensated by a general reduction in the price level. Such important items in the wage earner's budget, as transportation and rent, certainly will not be reduced, as they are important sources of public revenue. As to lowering food costs, the Government's policy itself is a force in holding up the prices.

THEIR DAY

There are those, some highly placed in authority, who would have the world forget the meaning of Armistice Day. They point to its commemoration as a perpetuation of the memory of war. In their endeavor to create a new psychology in which war shall be unknown they would blot out of all minds of the bereaved by war the memory of their dead, a reformation as ignoble as it is unthinkable. This anniversary remains, and will remain, despite what anyone may seek to do, the time when all sorts and conditions of people will continue to be moved deeply by thoughts and feelings common to them all. For the British Empire it is the day of days when recollection is centered on its 1,081,052 dead of the Great War, those who lie buried in Europe, Asia, North America, South and Central America, Africa, the West Indies, Australasia and the islands of the Pacific Ocean.

Armistice Day, by prescriptive right, is set aside primarily for the purpose of honoring the fallen. It is their day, the day of the 582,783 who were identified in death, of the 173,213 who were found and not identified and buried as "Unknown," and of the balance of the lost recorded as "Missing." In France alone there are 2,000 British war cemeteries; in Belgium, 500. In Flanders, in New Britain, in the Philippines, in the Leeward and Hawaiian Islands, in Guatemala, in the Belgian Congo, in North Borneo, in scores upon scores of other places they lie buried—"Those who with fame immortal their own dear land endowed."

The memory of the fallen is mercifully softened with the years. Their Day has become a world heritage. The commemoration of the Armistice and its rites grows in significance every year. It emphasizes, as does the flow of pilgrims to the grave of the Unknown Warrior in Westminster Abbey, how deep is the instinct of remembrance of those "whose name liveth for evermore." This instinct, so humane in its operation, has another significance as well, for, as Mr. Stanley Baldwin says: "The war itself helped to consolidate the Empire by the bond of united effort and equal sacrifice in a common cause. Those cemeteries themselves—the thousand habitations of our dead—testify, and will testify to coming generations, to the quickened sense of Imperial unity which has grown out of our great trial."

His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales not long ago, in a plea made for Armistice Day, expressed the hope that in honoring the dead the living would not be forgotten. There are, he said, other millions with us, "who were not called upon to make the final sacrifice, but were no less ready to die." His desire is that the reproach should be removed forever that we only make much of soldiers when war comes and when we need them. He believes that to the last man of the armies of the war all should have full assurance of the Empire's gratitude, that the lot of them should be made richer in the things that are worth while and that all should remember that, "it is thanks to what those men did, as soldiers and sailors, that we remain a free and united Empire today." He says: "The debt is greater than we can ever pay, but we can do our best to pay it, as far as we can, in the way they (the fallen) would have wished."

WORK FOR DISCOVERIES

The report of Mr. O. W. Torreyson concerning a vast "dead spot" discovered in the Pacific Ocean by the scientific yacht Carnegie on her last ill-fated cruise, reveals another of the world's mysterious features and proves once more that there are yet discoveries to be made by those willing to make them. The scientists on the Carnegie found a huge sub-surface area in the Pacific 100 miles wide and of unknown length, where there is no oxygen whatever and in which there is no living thing. The cause of such a phenomenon is unknown. The lifeless water lies 300 feet beneath the surface and extends for a depth of about 1,000 feet. Both above and below it there is live water, where fish and other ocean life abound.

More and more it becomes apparent that the air and the water offer the greatest remaining areas of mystery. Great altitudes are yet unpenetrated by man. Eight miles up about encompasses man's upward limit. Great depths abound in the oceans, most of them unplumbed. William Beebe recently entered an entirely new world when he descended a quarter of a mile in a giant steel ball in the Atlantic off Bermuda. Now Mr. Torreyson tells of the "dead spot" in the Pacific. How many other such areas are there one wonders. What causes them? Where are they? Do they affect ocean currents and temperatures? There are many questions yet to be answered about this everyday world. The age of Columbus did not close the age of discovery.

FISCAL PHILOSOPHY

Mr. Philip Snowden, the British Chancellor of the Exchequer, in addressing the bankers of London, said he "was left quite unmoved" by Great Britain's lower percentage of world trade. It is a conception which is an expression of self-complacency in his own administration of the country's fiscal policy. He appears in the role of the stoic philosopher, unmoved by happenings over which he should be exercising control. It never enters his thoughts that revenue destruction and revenue wastage may be contributory factors in a declining trade.

This year Mr. Snowden has added to the burdens of the British people a sum of $50,000,000. To make this possible new taxation, with its depressing effect, has become necessary. He has been perhaps the chief personal asset in bringing about an impasse in which, as he says himself, "it may be possible that I shall have to outrage my strict financial principles and make myself do things which I could not justify under ordinary circumstances." What these financial principles are, all the world knows. They are of the type which takes from those who have acquired by industry and thrift to give to those who are victims of conditions which the Government, of which Mr. Snowden is a member, has done so much to promote.

If Mr. Snowden survives politically long enough to bring down another Budget it is quite true he may have to violate his financial principles. To do so it will be necessary for him to inculcate policies that are safe and sound, and among these would have to be a substantial reduction in the expenditures on Socialistic experiments and the wholesale elimination of the abuse of those experiments which have been perpetrated under the Labor Government. If Mr. Snowden is unmoved by trade conditions it is wholly unlikely that he will reform his fiscal policy. The first step in the needed reformation is likely to be the elimination by the people of Mr. Snowden and others of his kidney from power.

"SMALL CORRODING WORDS"

Mr. Rudyard Kipling, whose son was killed in France in the Great War, is among those who have taken issue with the British Labor Government in the efforts of the latter to destroy "Memories" of the struggle. The first step in this propaganda of the Laborites, as everyone knows, is to suggest to foreign Governments that the official custom of laying wreaths on war memorials should be abandoned. The explanation given for such a request is, according to Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, "in order that the act which ought to be one of homage should not become a mere formality."

Mr. Kipling, in trenchant verse, attacks the Labor Government for its effort to destroy war memories, "through the power of small corroding words." Perhaps today's commemoration of all over the world will be the best and most fitting answer to the attitude of Mr. Ramsay MacDonald. He may hereafter realize that it is impossible to govern the conscience of mankind, and that all he has accomplished is to display yet another angle of his belief in the efficacy of words as opposed to deeds, of "small corroding words" as opposed to events that have made history. What Mr. Ramsay MacDonald would have the world do is explained in a couple of Kipling's verses:

Which things must perish. But our hour
Comes not by staves or swords
So much as subtly through the power
Of small corroding words.
No need to make the plot more plain
By any open thrust;
But—see their memory is slain
Long ere their bones are dust!

Wistful yet yearly fitch some wreath—
Lay some proud rite aside—
And daily tarnish with our breath
The ends for which they died.
Distract, deride, deride, confuse—
(Or—when it serves us—pray!)
So presently we break the use
And meaning of their day.

A moratorium on reparation payments would be playing into the hands of Herr Adolf Hitler. If Germany once were permitted to suspend the payment of the price of her defeat it is very certain that the debt might as well be canceled altogether.

SUBSIDIZED IMPORTS

There is no good alternative to the present helpless and hopeless method except a general tariff, moderate but efficient. How, without tariff equality, can there be any firm security in this country for the fullest results of rationalization, or for the big capital now to be sunk in that process? In iron and steel, for instance, there cannot be maximum output and lowest costs of production unless we augment our manufacture by adding to it the cost of the huge amount we at present import. If it is cheaper for any concern to use the foreign stuffs and to throw British works and insurance and the like, then these imports are directly subsidized imports; and they are nothing else; and they strike at the British standard of life.—J. L. Garvin in The London Observer.

FORGIVENESS

"I will repay," so reads the Book.
The Decalogue speaks the same.
Hold not resentment in your heart,
To tear like a scarlet flame.

Hate is a poison of the soul;
Forgive the tongue reviling.
It will be dust in a little while,
Twe better you keep smiling.

The tumult passes, dies the din
Of battle, peace returning.
Hold in your heart one little place
Where the flame of love keeps burning.
—Clarence P. Milligan in The Detroit News.

What wonderful things are events! The least are of greater importance than the most sublime and prehensive speculations.—Earl of Beaconsfield.

Yesterday was Thanksgiving Day, and a holiday in Canada. Thanksgiving Day as an institution was first established in the United States. It was established in the early days of the Republic, when the majority of the people were engaged in agricultural and kindred pursuits and when an abundant harvest was something to be thankful for. Now that the United States has become a great industrial country and a great change has come over the business pursuits of the people, the idea of a day of special thanksgiving for an abundant harvest still persists.

We believe Thanksgiving Day is the most popular holiday in the United States and is observed with even greater enthusiasm (if that be the proper word to apply to something which originally was a religious holiday) than Christmas. The American Thanksgiving is a day of feasting. The American turkey is the king of the feast, and pumpkin pie is its consort. The turkey may not have been originally an American bird (its name would suggest that it was not), but there is no doubt that in the days before the murderous hand of man was let loose on this continent to bring devastation among all living creatures, wild turkeys were plentiful in the east of the Eastern parts of the continent and roast turkey was the most popular dish served on the tables of the Pilgrim Fathers.

There is no doubt whatever that pumpkin pie is indigenous to America. In all other parts of the world, with the exception of Canada, pumpkin pie is a gastronomic stranger and exile. It is served in England once a year—on the day when modern American Pilgrims assemble in London to celebrate the day. The materials for the majestic dish are, of course, imported, for while the pumpkin may be grown in modern England, it does not flourish there as it does in the United States and Canada.

The idea of a Canadian Thanksgiving Day was, of course, imported from the United States. In this country the day was originally a day of prayer and praise. It has recently become more like a day of feasting than a day of thanksgiving. The people of Canada who are engaged in the peaceful pursuits of agriculture have reason to be thankful for an abundant harvest, but they have no special reason to be thankful for the profits they have derived from that harvest. Turkeys are cheap, cheaper than they have been for many years, and that is something for the people of the towns and cities to be thankful for, but it would perhaps be just as well not to inquire what the people who raise turkeys for the market think about it.

There are said to be two sides to every question. There is also said always to be something to be thankful for. If the farmers of Canada have had a bad year, there are other years to come, and the prospects for the future of this country in all kinds of pursuits are more hopeful than the prospects of most other countries. If the business situation in this country is unsettled, the political situation is settled, and we have succeeded in establishing stable government, and that is something which cannot be said of the United States, of Great Britain, or of any of the nations of the world, judging by what we read every day in the newspapers. If the joy of thanksgiving this year was somewhat dampened by the conditions of the present, it was stimulated by the prospects for the future.

There is a jolly little political tempest blowing in England. The Premier of Canada and the Premier of Great Britain are in the midst of the mad blast. It seems that somewhere in the country where Free Trade is more of a religious dogma than a sane economic principle, Mr. Bennett made a speech in a private circle under strict conditions of confidence. In that speech the Premier stated that higher wages are paid to workmen in Canada than are paid to workmen in Lancashire. That was a true statement, as everybody knows.

The speech of Mr. Bennett was not made in public and was not intended to be published. The highly respectable Manchester Guardian, a journal which was never suspected of being capable of bad faith or of resorting to the methods of yellow newspapers, published a distorted and mutilated report of the speech, in which the Canadian Prime Minister was reported to have said that goods were produced in the factories of Lancashire under "awful conditions." Mr. Bennett says he was not correctly reported in the speech published by The Guardian. The Guardian declares, on the authority of a Liberal or Socialist member of Parliament, who is also a preacher, that Mr. Bennett's speech was correctly reported. The incident reminds us of the case of a prominent newspaper man and politician who was expelled recently from France because he had secured a copy of a state document which was declared to have been false, and published it in his chain of newspapers. We believe such things were impossible in England, but when political strife becomes bitter and Free Trade is dying hard, even a political angel may fall from grace.

IN MEMORIAM—1914-1918

From the highway I see crosses
Where the blooms of poppies red
Hold for memory glad, yet poignant
Ever our remembered dead!

On the highway march the living
Throng of many kinds of men,
Broken warriors, sons of fallen
Where the poppy blooms again.

In the highways of the highway
Is there place for those who sped
Duty's way when help was urgent,
And the poppies bloomed so red?
—Nigel.

CATS AND BIRDS

Sir,—I have read with great interest your correspondent's suggestions for the protection of our young birds from the depredations of cats. Mrs. Vivenot's idea of a rubber collar with bells attached might give timely warning to young birds who had power to fly, but I fear would cause a cat-racket to "beat the band," when they got over it. They would be well attached to the neck in the endeavor to remove what, to her, would be a great nuisance.

Mr. Tucker thinks that the damage cats do is exaggerated, and, whilst as far as the nesting birds are concerned, a cat is usually only able to get one at a time. It is a far different case with ground nesters such as pheasants, quail, grouse, etc. Here the young are running around following their mothers as chickens do with our poultry, and are quite unable to fly. The hunting cat lays in wait for a brood, then, lurking in amongst them, strikes out right and left with her forepaws and ruthlessly slays or fatally wounds practically the entire flock in a twinkling of an eye.

Mrs. Vivenot's suggestion of locking up cats in early morning would no doubt be of great help, but there are difficulties, as I fear few ladies would care to get up on chilly spring mornings and go on a still hunt for their cats.

Two gentlemen suggest a small bounty or license system. This would be really effective, but you see, sir, most of our legislators have wives, and most of these wives have cats, and most of these cats have kittens, so I am afraid we should get the MacDonald answer to our petition, "We cannot do it."

It would help a little if all who keep cats would make it a rule, when picking out their kittens, to wish to keep from a litter, to consign all toms to the warm water pail and retain only females. This should result in a measure of birth control, as toms, being invariably an inveterate wanderer, will be gradually killed off by our game wardens and sportsmen.

The problem, like all other problems in which our citizens are involved, is a very difficult one, yet something really must be done to mitigate the ruthless destruction of bird life.

UNEMPLOYMENT

Sir,—If we are fortunate in one way in having in our midst less unemployment than other cities, it is no excuse for our not coping with a situation that is not promptly. Far too much time has been lost in not dealing with a constructive way with this serious question. Vancouver has put in her claim to the Provincial Government covering the present period and former years (refusing to admit about that) for a refund of a part of the advances made by the municipality in aid of the unemployed, which is a good business stroke on her part. Our claim appears to me to have been well handled. There has not been that determined effort behind it to insure success.

With Government aid, to a certain extent, at our command, we do not supplement that by resorting to a former war-time measure to secure funds, and in which we all joined hands at that time by giving a day's pay a month. Surely we can come together again so that all who are receiving a fair income can give a day's pay per month to secure to me the fortune of my brothers and sisters who are not able to secure employment. It is certainly painful knowing that in our city there are many able boys and girls who cannot find work. It is up to all citizens who can do so to extend a helping hand to cope with this modern unemployment menace.

WEALTH OF LIVING
This is true wealth of living:
To share in others' lives.
To feel their joy in giving.
Their faith which upward strives;
To lend to others' weakness
What strength we can command.
To learn to live with meekness,
To try to understand.

This is true wealth of living:
Not hoarding any good,
But day by day forgiving.
Each hostile word of mood;
Not keeping any treasures
Just for our selfish ends;
But passing on the pleasures
Each sparkling morning sends.

This is true wealth of living:
To cast self all aside,
And in serene thanksgiving
For all life's good, abide.

AGRICULTURAL ASSOCIATION HOLDS MEETING

Comox Organization Elects Officers—Plans Made for Future Activities

RESOLUTIONS PASSED: BUSINESS DISCUSSED

COURTENAY, Nov. 10.—Not large, but very enthusiastic, was the annual meeting of the Comox Agricultural and Industrial Association, which annually stages the most important fall exhibition of Northern Vancouver Island. Following the routine business of the meeting, in which satisfactory reports were received from the treasurer, J. H. MacIntyre, and the secretary, E. F. Thomas, a lively discussion took place relative to the figures for the coming year. Making a comparison with the figures of the previous annual statement, the treasurer showed how the steady progress of recent years was maintained during the present year, in spite of the difficult times. This had been done by the exercise of much care, and the 1930 Fall Fair had been an unqualified success.

PLANS FOR FUTURE

The secretary's report, while covering the activities of the association during the last twelve months, outlined and suggested activities in which the institution might advantage include in 1931. Besides purely social events, these suggestions included co-operation with both the Agricultural and Education Departments with a view to getting demonstrations and lectures during the winter months. The reports were well received.

R. U. Hurford reported a successful ploughing match and gave particulars of the prizes to be awarded. The committee had come to the conclusion that prizes in previous years had been out of proportion to those paid in other districts, and that it was therefore desirable to keep the prizes within the bounds of finances and avoid soliciting contributions.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Most of the officers were elected by acclamation, which included the return of R. H. Bullock as president for another year. There were seven nominations to fill the directorate, however. The results were: Officers—Honorary president, Hon. R. H. Bullock; Lieutenant-Governor, Hon. S. F. Toimie; Premier, Alex. Urquhart and Mrs. Wm. Leslie. Honorary vice-presidents, T. H. Mumford, of Cumberland; William Baskin, of Nanaimo Island; and Mrs. L. B. Beall, of Hornby Island. President, R. H. Bullock; first vice-president, James Casanave; second vice-president, Geo. W. Edwards; secretary, E. F. Thomas; treasurer, J. H. MacIntyre; directors, Mrs. Walter McPhee, R. U. Hurford, H. S. Baker, Bert Grievie, W. A. Urquhart, J. W. Stalker, Wm. Rickson, William Duncan, John Crockett, W. A. B. Paul, James Reid, and Mrs. Walter Brown.

RESOLUTIONS

A number of resolutions included an assurance to the City Council of an earnest desire on the part of the Agricultural Society to co-operate in the development of the municipal park and grounds, and pointed out the urgent need of a comprehensive plan for future permanent improvements to insure permanence of future work. This resolution pointed out that the Agricultural Association has patiently brought the matter before the City Council for the past two years and now asks consideration at the same time drawing attention to the fact that any expenditure in the near future would be of great help to many anxious to find employment, and at a lesser cost to the city.

G. W. Edwards submitted a plan for renovating the large hall which seemed to meet with general approval, and after it had been reviewed by the committee, the directors took such steps as they may deem necessary to have the hall put in a satisfactory condition the chairman appointed a committee for the purpose, composed of R. U. Hurford, G. W. Edwards and William Duncan. W. A. Urquhart's motion to hold Fall Fair prize money until the annual meeting to assure a better attendance was also sustained. During the balloting the ladies served refreshments.

Former King of Greece Returns to Rumania

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Former King George of Greece departed for Rumania, by way of Paris, on Monday, but insisted his visit would have no political significance. In Paris he will visit his cousin, Princeps Sophie, who is there buying a residence, but I suppose I should be consulted," said the former king. "Then I go to Rumania to join the queen."

Reports of a strange unfrequented island, which partly sinks and view every twenty-four hours and whose physically superb inhabitants live almost exclusively on fish and coconuts, were made to Matsen Line officials by Capt. C. N. Olsen, master of the steamship Golden Eagle, now at Seattle from a voyage to the South Seas.

This freakish little speck of land is on the equator in the heart of the Pacific South Seas and is so small that mapmakers have not accorded it so much as a dot. For identification purposes on the mariner's chart, it has been named Tarawa and is one of the group known as the Gilbert Islands.

EXPERIENCE WORTH WHILE

"Our business at Tarawa was to put ashore five white adventurers whom we took aboard in Sydney," said Captain Olsen. "Weaving our way through the coral reefs of Tarawa was more of a job than I had bargained for. There were many treacherous reefs a few feet under water, but by watching carefully from the bridge I could spot the deep water by the way it reflected light, and thus we were able to crawl along, feeling our way as we went. We were compelled to drop anchor half a mile off shore and proceed in small boats. There it became too shallow even for the boats and we had to wade the last 200 yards. But the experience was worth while. To our amazement we found the little island populated with a race of people as handsome as any I ever have seen. They appeared to be a mixture of Malaysian and Polynesian. The men were giant in stature, clean-limbed and muscular, and the women tall and slender with a queenly bearing.

FISH AND COCONUTS

"The natives were awed by our approach, but after assuring themselves our mission was friendly, they received us warmly. Bronze-skinned, unclothed children, like scared rabbits, peeked at us from behind palm trees and bushes.

"Tarawa is a coral atoll twenty-two miles long and a mile across at its widest point. It is only four feet above sea level and at high tide approximately half its surface becomes submerged. Its year-round temperature averages between 83 and 95 degrees.

"What impressed us most was the apparently rugged health and vitality of the natives, who probably live on the most restricted diet of any people on earth. Because of the absence of soil on the coral formation there are no tropical fruits or vegetables, nothing but coconuts. Fortunately there are plenty of fish, and these, with the coconuts, sustain the populace. The national beverage, we learned, is coconut milk which often is substituted for water during periods of prolonged drought.

ROMANCE STILL LIVES

"We arrived at the little village of Bittu, on the high end of Tarawa, just at dinner time, and had the interesting experience of watching the natives dine. Each family gathers around a huge bowl which holds from eight to ten gallons of coconut and fish mixture. With individual hand-carved ladles, they dip freely into the food.

"After dinner we were entertained by the community orchestra and a dancing troupe. It was a pagan spectacle characteristic of the South Seas—sinuous movement to the rhythmic beat of tomtoms. The palest moon I ever saw hung low over the palm trees, casting its light on the swirling forms of the dancers. The spell was broken by the realization that I had work to do. After counting noses to make sure that none of my crew had been 'kidnaped' by native slavers, we waded back to our boats, rowed to the Golden Eagle, weighed anchor and steamed away. The experience convinced us there still is romance in the lives of modern seafaring men."

TACOMA, Nov. 10.—Four men, one of them V. A. Babcock, sought as the bandits who attempted to hold up the Des Moines auto stage last Wednesday night, are in the Tacoma city jail. Three of them were arrested by a lone officer late Saturday, while Babcock was apprehended in a local rooming-house late yesterday afternoon. Babcock, suffering great agony from an infected hand as the result of having his thumb blown off by the night watchman at the stage depot, was arrested in company of Hattie Gill, twenty-two.

All the men confessed participation in the Des Moines robbery and in their confessions cleared up scores of hold-ups and burglaries in Portland, Shelton, Hoodport, Tacoma, Sumner and Seattle.

If November 11 is your birthday, the most propitious hours for you are from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., from 4:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. The danger periods are from noon to 1:30 p.m. and from 10:30 p.m. to midnight.

Astrological signs for this date are very favorable, and many valuable opportunities will present themselves, but it depends on you whether they are converted to advantage. It is an especially good time for the launching of new enterprises and beneficial changes.

Children born on this November 11 will be truthful and successful. They will have an inborn frankness that will not permit of dubious methods, and they promise to be straightforward in all relationships of life. They will, at their maturity, be respected by all those with whom they come in contact.

You are not an apostle of progress. You affect to despise the degree of civilization, the modicum of knowledge, the extent of social organization which has been attained. You praise the past, and to a large extent live in it and on it. Tradition and custom mean everything to you, and so far as your limited vision goes, everything new and progressive is anathema. Your conduct is regulated by regulations, and lacks all conditions. Needless to say, in presence of a mature person, you are not a bit of a freak.

The signs do not denote for you any great measure of worldly success, although your virtues are many. You are honorable, straightforward and truthful. You are considerate of other people and their feelings. You are sympathetic and kind. You refuse, however, to get out of a rut and have no appreciation of the new things that are going on around you, nor will you participate in any of the recreations that modernism has devised for our benefit and amusement.

If you can find a mate who also is willing to "stay put," married life will bring you happiness and in monotony you will find your greatest enjoyment. If you marry, you should choose a partner born either in June or August.

Canada's Fighting Airmen Is Subject of Fine Book

Lieutenant-Colonel George A. Drew has done a notable work for the Dominion in compiling the records of Canada's knights of the air, and the MacLean Publishing Company, Toronto, have worthily collaborated, not only in producing a work of typographical excellence in their first venture into the field of books, but in previously publishing the epic stories in MacLean's magazine, the foremost publication of its kind in this country.

It is peculiarly fitting that the heroic deeds of these young Canadians should be made known at this time when, led by the British Government under Ramsay MacDonald, all memories of the late war are "verboten" and we are being told to forget, forgive and set the most comfortable chair by the warmest side of our communal hearth for the German who, twelve years ago, was regarded not only as our National enemy, but as the enemy of mankind. It is, therefore, an added debt of gratitude to MacLean's and to Colonel Drew that they do not intend that the heroism, the chivalry and the devotion to duty of these gallant Canadian youths should be forgotten, nor that their deeds should be smothered under the sickly sentimentality of mistaken pacifist propaganda. These are the more ardent advocates of peace than the men who fought in the mud and filth of Flanders, and on the Somme, in the burning sands of Mesopotamia, or in the defiles of the Balkans, but to deny them credit for their accomplishments, and rob younger generations of the inspiration of their devotion is but to weaken the cause of patriotism and rob the Empire of its most valuable asset—a love of country.

So, then, MacLean's and Colonel Drew are entitled to the generous thanks of Canada for what they have done in presenting this book to the Canadian public at this time.

FROM OFFICIAL RECORDS
And the stories that are told from official records in "Canada's Fighting Airmen" are such that no true Canadian can read without being benefited and his citizenship improved.

No tale of chivalrous knightdom in the days of the crusades can give more glamorous than these stories of the young sons of the Dominion, who dared death amid the clouds.

Bishop and Barker, Collishaw and Claxton, MacLaren, McLeod and McElroy and McCall, Quigley, Carter and McKeever are among those whose exploits fill the pages of this book.

Bishop, Barker and McLeod won the most coveted of all honors, the Victoria Cross, and some small knowledge of their exploits was obtained through the fact, but it is only in the pages of this book that a true vision of their greatness in the dark days of the nation's trial is obtained. You can picture—so vividly are the stories told—Bishop, single-handed, attacking a German air-drome; you can see Barker whirling about amid a host of enemy planes, fighting tremendous odds, and envision young Arnold McLeod, wounded, crawling out on to the wing of his damaged plane to balance it as it descends.

HEROIC NATIVE SONS
You will obtain from the pages of the book the reason why May Collishaw, of Nanaimo, native son of British Columbia, is called "the world's greatest fighting aviator," and learn the exploits of Freddie McCall, born in the Okanagan; of the heroism of Don MacLaren, of Vancouver, the quiet, unassuming young manager of a civil air company, whom you can meet any day on the streets of Vancouver or Victoria, and fail to recognize as the sixth greatest warrior of the air. It is surprising that a dozen years have gone by without recognition in such a book of the exploits of these Canadian boys. Bishop, Collishaw, Barker and MacLaren alone accounted for 230 enemy planes—a record unequalled. But to gain a true perspective of what the Canadian boys did, read "Canada's Fighting Airmen." It is Canadian history—may, world history—and in our own times.

Those who have never paid a visit to our Community Centre will take this opportunity to acquaint themselves with the fine work that is being carried on by this organization. It is hoped that members of the Community Centre and their friends will spare no effort to bring as many visitors as possible to the fair at 10. The success it well deserves.

REGINA MAN HEADS WESTERN GRIDDERS

Dr. McCusker Elected President: at Annual Meeting—Change in Deadline Kicking to Be Asked

CALGARY, Nov. 10.—Dr. Emmet McCusker, of Regina, today was elected president of the Western Canada Rugby Football Union, succeeding W. L. "Squib" Ross, Calgary, at the annual meeting held here. Other officers are: Karl Wintemute, Winnipeg, first vice-president; Moe Lieberman, Edmonton, second vice-president; Ray Conroy, Vancouver, third vice-president; Andy Malmitt, Calgary, A. E. Proposals that the age limit in junior Rugby be lowered from twenty-one to twenty years, and that the residence rule be changed from September 1, as at present to June or July 1, were defeated.

4087 THE PROMENADE

Just Roamin' Around

Nothing that we can say or do now, can repay the debt for the loving self-sacrifice of those who gave their lives for their King. Their country and fellowmen to God, either in the Great War or its aftermath; nor may we bring them back again to the scenes of their earthly life; but we can still do much for the wounded and disabled and their dependents in need of help and encouragement, the sad victims of adversity and sorrow, and today is a reminder to all of us to exert every effort on behalf of the unfortunate.

"It is Armistice Day," Rover, the day our nation has set apart and sanctified as a sacred memorial to our dead of the Great War; a day to thank God that our Empire produced such countless heroes in her hour of necessity; a day to be grateful for our final victory and the preservation of our national independence; a day to wear a poppy in token of our respect and memory of the boys in Flanders Fields, but, in our hearts, to wear the rose and scatter its perfume of kindness and consideration of others and our bounty to those who returned unfitted for the stern battle of life, unable to support themselves—or only able to do so partially—and their families, who may be requiring assistance, where pensions, if any, are inadequate, where encouragement is a stimulant to revive a healthy hope, ambition and peace.

If you are in want of a prayer for the two minutes silence, offer up one, not for the dead alone, for they are in good hands; not for the returned disabled alone, for they will now be better looked after by the new Pensions Board, but for ourselves, that we may be better given our sympathy and administer relief and help to the needy.

Go down to the Red Cross Workshop on Johnson Street whenever you need anything that can be made there, for, twelve years after the Great War came to an end, it is our privilege to remember the boys who did great things for us. And there are wounded, and widows, and orphans and many bereaved still with us; there is poverty and distress, the sad results of the conflict that almost destroyed civilization. Support the work of the Red Cross Society to the best of your ability, and you will feel happier yourself and make many other happier as well.

"We are in no mood to kick at anything today, Rover; there are too many memories that crowd in upon us, but we are indeed thankful that we are so well and wish all the others were as fortunate."

Our kindest thoughts today we give to those who went away Across the seas, our feet to fight With valiant hearts, to champion Right!

Let's reach our hands out and pre- pare, With grateful hearts and earnest prayer, To help all those unfortunate Before we find it is too late! Before we find it is too late!

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified crocote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth. Of all known drugs, crocote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat trouble. Creomulsion contains, in addition to crocote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the crocote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after collapse. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

FASHION DECREES

LARGE HATS GO

Despite its staunch supporters in the millinery world, the large hat seems destined to go down in the annals of this Winter's fashion history as one of those styles that fought and lost, says the Toronto Saturday Night. Struggling for its existence, with the best of designers in its back lines pushing it forward, it has been no match for the small hat, backed by the multitude of women who know its practical aspects and its chic. Here is yet another instance of the difference between clothes 'as they are' and clothes as women wear them. For almost all designers in Paris presented large hats in their August collections, and now we see them yielding to the dictates of the wearers of their fashions and again sponsoring the small chapeau.

Winter, with its big fur collars, makes the large hat impracticable, except for afternoon receptions.

weddings and the like. But, irrespective of collars, women have found the large hat difficult to wear, truly effective only on the head of the tall and willowy type of women. There is a type of leather-trimmed hat of medium size that is smart, but this, too, is for formal occasions.

Caroline Reboux, always with something new to offer in millinery, is wiring the brims of felt hats which she cuts very narrow in the front and places high on the crown. The outline of the brims is much like the one-time Directoire bonnet. Facing brims with contrasting color is a favorite trick of hers for adding to a hat's becomingness, as in a model of black felt faced with pink panne velvet. Or again she binds the edge of the brim in contrasting color, as in a model of green felt bordered with black, or grain ribbon. Variety and contrast seem to be the "fat words" in her recipe for making hats.

Latest Fashions From French Salons

A LOVELY evening gown (1) from Lucien Lelong in light blue chiton trimmed with embroidery and beads. (2) A copy of Lucille's very smart "strap dress," in green and white crepe with a belt at the normal waistline. (3) An attractive afternoon coat of red cloth trimmed with black astrachan from Lucien Lelong. The hat is from Mario Guy. (4) A Marie Marot sketch of a smart knitted suit of deep green. The revers have long ends forming a throw-over scarf in a light shade of green. The blouse, too, is of light green with a border of several shades of green.

Leather Ensembles

Suede and Leathers of All Kinds Used for Season's Smartest Sports Wear—Beautiful Colors and Designs Shown

Leather has become simultaneously more and more utilitarian and more and more fashionable, says an article in The Christian Science Monitor. That is to say, while the ever-growing demand for motorcars and sports has led on the one hand to an increased output of inexpensive leather and suede coats, at the other end the trade designers are showing exclusive ensembles of in artistry hitherto undreamed of in this material. In all grades, lightness in weight is a marked feature, while the best nappas are so made as neither to drop nor sag as in the past.

There is today a leather outfit suitable for practically every day occasion, beginning with the smartly tailored gilette town suit and finishing with washable suede for sports wear.

While last year golfing suits were made with specially spun Scotch tweed skirts—a smart but by no means windproof arrangement—this year's suits have either a circular leather skirt covering featherweight suede knickers that are weatherproof yet washable—a style that is as suitable for skating and voyages as for the links.

For town and travel, a very smart costume of all-suede gazelle is shown in forty shades. The skirt, either of leather or fine tweed, is made on a low yoke and shows today's longer length. Specially dyed check silk shirts complete the suit.

Leather coats are no longer plain and cumbersome. All the craft for which the Northampton and Malvern tanners are famed has gone to increasing the suppleness of made-up goods. Fine pipings in cording effect and neat patterns worked into the skins mark the best models.

Zipper fastenings are much seen. They are used on jumpers, on skirt hip and coat pockets, cut both horizontally and vertically. Long fleece-lined, spongeable nappa coats in white and pale shades are being made for sports wear. These can be sponged in soap and water, and later on dyed a darker shade.

So cleverly treated and highly proofed are some of today's skins—nappa and suede—that one firm invites visitors to throw bottles of ink over their suede models. The ink flows as water off a duck's back, leaving no perceptible mark. Such qualities, however, can be demanded only of the very specially prepared leathers.

CLEANING HINTS
A new feature is the matching set, comprising a man-tailored crossover waistcoat—equally smart for riding or wear with a "costume" tailleur—and beret, gloves and bag en suite.

Gazelle that is guaranteed against stretching is a novelty. For cleaning it a special two-sided brush, one surface for dust and one for shining, is sold.

Buyers are warned not to use gasoline for cleaning leather. Really greasy marks should be covered with Fuller's earth or magnesia for twenty-four hours. When brushed away the stain should have vanished completely.

Women's Institutes of Vancouver Island

SOOKE

The regular meeting of the Sooke and North Sooke Women's Institute was held in Sooke Hall on Friday evening. In the absence of the president, Mrs. E. Horwood, the chair was taken by Mrs. M. E. Jackson. A financial statement of the Halloween masquerade was given by the secretary, which showed a substantial sum realized. The report of the conference was given by Mrs. G. H. Jones, and reports of visits to the sick by the committee. Under the auspices of the institute the fourth card party will be held on Wednesday, November 19, at the Belvedere Hotel. Following the meeting the annual bulb and plant sale and silver tea was held, which was attended by a number of visitors.

WOULD PRESERVE GAMES AND SONGS

TORONTO, Nov. 10.—Does your daughter know how to play that good old-fashioned game, "Nuts in May"? If she does not, then she has the heartiest sympathy of Dr. Ernest McMillan, principal of the Toronto Conservatory of Music. In speaking to the Zonta Club on the folk songs of Canada, Dr. McMillan expressed a hope that parents would pass on to their children the well-loved folk games and songs of their own youth. "I feel actually sorry for a child who has not learned from its mother that grand old game, 'Nuts in May,' Home, Sweet Home" and "The Last Rose of Summer," he pointed out, were not folk songs, though they were frequently classed as such. Loyal Scots who have thrilled to the strains of "Blue Bells of Scotland," received a shock when the speaker denounced it as being not a folk song and not even Scottish. He said it was written in England for some concert hall singer.

Modern youth was not particularly interested in preserving the folk life of Canada, he asserted, and urged those present to do all in their power to arouse enthusiasm for the wealth of that kind already discovered within the Dominion and to encourage discoverers to go in search of treasures still buried.

Women Organizing Essay Contest

A 500-word essay for all boys and girls of Victoria, Oak Bay and Esquimalt, between the ages of twelve and sixteen, on the subject, "Why Should Victoria Have an Airport?" will be organized, and the contest will close on December 1. There will be a first and second prize, a model airplane construction set and a flight over the city. The contest is under the direction of the Women's Aeronautical Association of Canada (Victoria Branch), and the co-operation of the principals and teachers of the schools will be appreciated by the association.

Nursing Profession Loses One of Its Pioneer Members

A link is broken with the pioneer days of public health nursing in this city in the passing away of Mrs. Flora Herbert.

Coming here, a widow with her young family, in the early 'nineties, Mrs. Herbert soon became known as a conscientious, efficient nurse. The public health nursing in Victoria was at that time under the management of the Home Nursing Society, who employed one nurse. The post of city nurse becoming vacant, Mrs. Herbert was appointed, and for many years faithfully discharged the duties necessary in the homes of those for whom this care was provided. It was truly pioneering work for one nurse to undertake without the assistance of motor transportation and the many modern aids now available.

Mrs. Herbert continued in this work almost up to the time of the coming of the Victorian Order of Nurses, when the work of the Home Nursing Society was taken over by that organization.

Although laid aside, owing to declining health, from active work, Mrs. Herbert kept alive her interest in welfare work through the activities of her daughter, Miss Herbert. Miss Herbert was the first Royal Public Health graduate to specialize in public health work, taking a three-year course in San Francisco, and continuing in that branch of her profession in the South, until her return to Victoria some years ago. For the past ten years Miss Herbert has been city school nurse.

Lectures on Africa

An interesting address was given by Miss Jamieson, prominent missionary worker, last week, when she described her recent visit to the continent of Africa. The First United Church was filled with an appreciative audience. Miss Jamieson paid a high tribute to the work accomplished by the Foreign Mission Board and the staff of the Women's Missionary Society. While in Africa, Miss Jamieson addressed 1,500 African men and women, who asked her to convey greetings to Canada. She told of the contribution to African music, which has been made by Rev. J. Arthur Sted, who led a great choir in singing many beautiful old hymns and church music at a great conference held in the valley, which was at one time used as the valley of wailing for the dead.

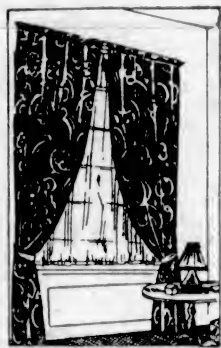

With Miss Jamieson on the platform were Mrs. James Hood, president of the United Church of Christ, and Rev. W. O. Wilson, pastor of First United Church. Mrs. S. Morton contributed a vocal solo, which was greatly appreciated.

SERVICE CLUB MEETS

The regular weekly meeting of the North Saanich Service Club was held in the clubroom, School Crossroad, on Saturday evening. Nine tables of five hundred were in play, the prizes being won by Mrs. Devlin and Mr. W. Bewick. At the conclusion of the card game refreshments were served by the ladies of the club, and an enjoyable dance was held.

A: What kind of a car has Tom?
B: Well, he'd feel tremendously flattered if you called it second-hand.

A Word Concerning Curtains

—those lace ones that have caused so many women weary back-breaking hours. The kind that used to be subjected to the harmful process of a stretcher and a hundred damaging pins! We'd like the opportunity of showing you just what we can do in the way of rejuvenating your lace curtains sans pins, sans stretcher and other harmful applications. The next time you make up your bundle why not include them? Aren't there other household things that need freshening?

ALL CHURCHES JOIN IN THANKSGIVING

Under the auspices of the Victoria Ministerial Association the customary interdenominational Thanksgiving service was held yesterday morning at the Metropolitan United Church. Rev. H. P. B. Luttrell, president of the association and pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, read the lesson, and Rev. G. C. F. Pringle, Centennial United Church, read the prayer. Rev. G. A. Reynolds, who preached the sermon, took as his text Psalm 66, v. 11: "Thou crownest the year with Thy goodness and Thy paths drop with fatness." From this the minister drew the lesson of the blessing of the harvest. Given to man by God, the harvest was intended to be used for God's honor and glory, which could only be by distribution to those who needed it.

The hymns sung were appropriate to the Thanksgiving season, including "We Praise Thee, O God," and "Come Ye Faithful People," the choir leading in the singing.

Society Notes From Mainland

VANCOUVER, Nov. 10.—The event of last week was undoubtedly the Military Institute ball, held on Friday evening in the crystal ballroom of the Hotel Vancouver. The decorative scheme was most elaborate, and very effective. The place de resplendence was a new crest of the institute outlined in neon lights. Panels had been arranged for the walls of the ballroom depicting Royal Canadian Air Force, cavalry, artillery, engineers, rifle brigade, infantry, Highlanders, and machine-gun units. Names of the great battles of the war were given various corners, forming rendezvous centres for the numerous guests. The supper tables were prettily decorated with Autumn foliage, and seated at the head table were Lieut.-Col. A. T. MacLean, M.C., and Mrs. MacLean, Brigadier J. Sutherland Brown, C.M.G., and Mrs. Brown, Colonel W. W. Foster, D.S.O., and Mrs. Foster, Lieut.-Col. W. S. Buell, C.B.E., and Mrs. Buell, Colonel J. F. Keen, C.M.G., and Mrs. Keen, Lieut.-Col. H. D. Hulme, V.D., Miss Dorothy Rayment and Capt. R. D. Kinmond, M.C.

Education and Leisure

Publication Just Received From J. M. Dent & Sons Gives Report of Principal Addresses of Conference Here Last Year

One of the most significant gatherings ever held on the Pacific Coast was the great conference on Education and Leisure held in April, 1929, in Vancouver and Victoria, the many fascinating addresses of which were followed with keen interest by throngs of people from all over the continent. A far greater number were unable to attend, owing to distance, lack of time, illness or other circumstances, and for these as well as the great audiences who wish to refresh their memories on points in the splendid lectures which were given, the volume recently published by J. M. Dent & Sons, Ltd. (London and Toronto) is a boon indeed.

This publication contains a report of the addresses delivered at this fourth triennial conference on education, edited by E. S. Lang, M.A., and with a foreword by Ernest Raymond.

The addresses are arranged under "Literature," to which Sir Rabin-drath Tagore, Ernest Raymond and Sir Archibald Strong; "Music and the Drama"; "The Cinema"; "The Radio," notable for the addresses of J. C. Stobart, educational director of the British Broadcasting Company and Tarao Kawasaki, who spoke on "Japan and the Radio"; "Organized Play and Recreation" and "Health."

There is also reproduced in the volume Sir Rabin-drath Tagore's prologue, "The Philosophy of Leisure," a discussion which is more appropriate and more understandable in the leisurely pace of literature than in the more restless setting of the lecture hall of the Occident.

UNIQUE OCCASION
The gathering was unique in Canadian educational annals—unique in conception, purpose and scope; in its achievement as a reconnaissance in force over a territory only partially explored hitherto; in the volume of the delegates; British and foreign, and in their competent treatment of certain problems of contemporary life which are bound to engage the attention of educators in an increasing degree. Mr. Raymond notes in his foreword.

Mr. Raymond, however, does make a tacit admission in his closing words: "Whether the secret of the perfect use of leisure was found during the mighty trek, and whether it is hidden somewhere in these pages, I am not prepared to say; but of this I am certain: that not a man went away from the conference after the 'Diamas' was sounded, whose being was not the larger and richer for all that it had offered him; whose mind was not stirred to wonderings and doubtings about the organization of his own life, than which nothing better can happen anywhere; and in such a conviction I hope that many thousands more will now pursue the same happy road, this book their guide."

"DIARY OF CONFERENCE"
There is a very fine index at the back of the volume and several pages in the first part of this volume of 274 pages are taken up with the diary of the conference, and this arrangement will serve as a valuable reminder of the days' happenings.

The following addresses are reproduced in the book:
On Literature—"The Meaning of Art," by Sir Rabin-drath Tagore;

"Through Literature to Life," Ernest Raymond; "Literature and Leisure," Sir Archibald Strong; "The Teaching of Literature," Ernest Raymond.

Music and the drama—"Leisure and the Drama," Sir Charles Grant Robertson; "Music and Leisure," J. Campbell-McInnes.

The cinema—"The Child and the Cinema," Rev. Dr. Leslie Pidgeon; "The Cinema and Its Place in Education," Sir Aubrey Vere Symonds.

Radio—"The Radio in Education," J. C. Stobart; "Japan and the Radio," Taro Kawasaki; "A National and Provincial Policy for the Radio," Prof. G. C. Sedgewick; "The Radio and Leisure," J. C. Stobart.

Organized play and recreation—"Educational Value of Play," Sir Aubrey Symonds; "Recreation and Health," L. B. Franklin; "English Games in the Life of France," Comte Serge Fleury; "The 'Dopplavoro' of Italy," Dr. Bruno Roselli.

"Education for Health," Robert Jarman; "The Sokol Movement," Prof. Charles Matoušek; "The German Youth Movement," Dr. Ludwig Mueller; "Speed and Noise," Prof. Winifred Collis; "Leisure and Social Hygiene," Sir Charles Grant Robertson.

Epilogue—"Farewell to Canada," Sir Rabin-drath Tagore.

The volume is effectively illustrated, the frontispiece being a picture of Sir Rabin-drath Tagore and Michael Ney, the son of Major Fred Ney, who organized the conference. Other pictures are of E. W. Beatty, the Hon. Henry Cockburn, Sir Aubrey Vere Symonds, Comte Serge Fleury and Lord Willingdon. A copy of the publication has already been placed on the shelves of the Victoria Public Library.

Condition Serious
OTTAWA, Nov. 10.—No change was noted over the week-end in the condition of Mrs. Peter Heenan, wife of the former Dominion Minister of Lands, who is gravely ill in hospital here. The special oxygen tent sent from Toronto to assist against double pneumonia is still being used. The patient retained improvement noted Saturday.

All That's New in FROCKS

for smart teas and dinners

Really gorgeous creations in black, that aristocratic shade which leads the mode in the more formal fashions... with charmingly feminine little jackets some are prepared to lead a smart double life... teas in the afternoon, dinner and dancing later... entrancingly smart, with the new Ruth Chatterton sleeves, the new surplice necks, the new tunics, the new Cavalier sleeves, elbow sleeve lengths, and gracious form-fitting lines. LONDON, Nov. 10.—Miss Pamela Bowes-Lyon, who is engaged to Lord Malcolm Douglas-Hamilton, is a first cousin of the Duchess of York. Her father, Col. Malcolm Bowes-Lyon, is the youngest brother of the Earl of Strathmore, and her mother was Miss Winifred Oulton-Rebon, of an old Essex family formerly seated at Wivenhoe Park. The bride-elect is twenty-two; Lord Malcolm, the third son of the Duke of Hamilton, will come of age this month. The union will directly unite two of the most ancient and distinguished of Scottish families.

GOVT HIRES SHIP TO DEPORT UNDESIRABLES

Brazil Will Send Out Large Number of Political Prisoners and Former Congressmen

By JOHN W. WHITE
(Copyright, 1930, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service)

RIO JANEIRO, Nov. 10.—The steamer Poconé of the Lloyd Brasileiro Line is being prepared to deport a large number of political prisoners. The passenger list will include former Congressmen and prominent politicians whose presence in the country under the new regime is considered undesirable.

Many persons slated for deportation have not yet been arrested, but have sought refuge in embassies and legations. Others are under arrest in forts and barracks.

DR. JULIO PRESTES
It is likely that Dr. Julio Prestes, who visited the United States as president-elect, will be among those sent out of the country. He has taken refuge in the residence of the British Consul at Sao Paulo. The ship's destination has not yet been determined.

Police are visiting all incoming vessels seeking Brazilians for whom arrest orders have been issued. Six were seized Friday on three incoming steamers from Europe and Northern Brazil ports. All outgoing steamers are being carefully examined to prevent the escape of political refugees.

The firing on the German steamer Baden, upon which more than a score of politicians and former officials were trying to escape, some with large sums of money, has served as a lesson to the captain of all vessels now drawn up in the bay to await clearance.

RECOGNIZE GOVERNMENT
Twelve nations have recognized the regime, the Argentine republic being among those notifying Rio Janeiro of recognition Friday. Austria and Sweden are the newest European nations to recognize the Government.

The chief of police has notified Communists that they are free to meet the same as any other political faction under the new regime's guarantee of political liberty, but that any Communist caught causing disorders will be immediately shot.

Two Hospitals of Minnesota to Pay Taxes to Ontario

TORONTO, Nov. 10.—St. Barnabas and the Shelters Arms, two hospitals in the State of Minnesota, must pay taxes amounting to $330,456 to the Government of Ontario with respect to valuable securities left to them in the will of Edwin Canfield Whitney, wealthy philanthropist, who died in Ottawa in 1924.

The University of Toronto and Wycliffe College will not pay any of this amount. They were the chief points of a judgment handed down by Justice Orde at Osgoode Hall today.

The four parties, benefactors under the Whitney will, asked for a ruling on this point. They claimed that a clause of the will directed that all legacies were untaxable. Justice Orde, however, found that "legacies" did not include these four gifts.

The University of Toronto and Wycliffe College must pay their respective share of the tax imposed by the State of Minnesota, $29,263, and the United States Federal Government, $2,227.

FORMER VICTORIA TEACHER REALIZES A FOND AMBITION

Many Victoria people will be interested in a picture which appeared in The Mail and Empire, Toronto, of recent date, showing Mr. and Mrs. M. K. Langdon and their four sons, William Osgoode Langdon, Charles V. Langdon, and Rutherford and Kenneth Langdon, the father and sons all wearing their barristers' robes.

Mr. M. K. Langdon, B.A., will be remembered here as a teacher for some years in the Victoria High School, and with the graduation of his two youngest sons, Rutherford and Kenneth, from Osgoode Hall Law School a few weeks ago he and his wife realized an old ambition to make barristers of all four sons, the elder sons already having been called to the bar. Since he taught school here Mr. Langdon himself studied law and is now practising in Brighton, Ont.

Mrs. J. A. Langdon and her daughter, Grace, of Victoria, visited their sons, the Langdons, in Ontario last summer.

Auction Bidding
1st Rd. 2nd Rd.
South Pass Pass Pass
West Pass Pass Pass
North 1 N. T.
East 1 N. T.

The minimum requirement for an opening bid of two No Trumps is 3 1/2 quick tricks divided among all four suits, with three suits doubly stopped. Of course it is very seldom that the quick trick holding will be as low as 3 1/2 quick tricks for the reason that in the vast majority of cases the additional requirements will necessitate a quick trick holding greater than this.

In the above deal East's holding greatly exceeds the minimum requirement for a two No Trump bid, as to quick trick value and as to stoppers in the various suits. In fact it would appear that all four suits are probably doubly stopped, while the Spade suit should be triply stopped, yet the bid does not justify an opening bid three No Trumps. For such bid there should be the practical assurance of game in own hand if partner should happen to hold as good as a couple of Queens.

A necessary corollary to great strength in own hand as to high cards is a probable lack of high cards in hand of partner. In fact, in this particular deal, should West not happen to have the King of Hearts, East would have a hard time making three No Trumps instead of the six No Trumps he does make. One card of entry in Dummy may often make this difference.

SALIENT POINTS OF THE BIDDING
Contract: South, West and North pass and East opens the bidding with two No Trumps. South passes and West bids three Spades. North passes and East bids three No Trumps. With Spades bid by partner, it looks as he should be able to make three No Trumps and be able to score for 150 Aces. He does not try to arrive at a slam bid on the hand. The arrival at such a bid would be very unlikely in view of the fact that partner has passed as Second Hand. The fact that the slam is possible in this hand does not affect the general principle. This concludes the bidding.

THE PLAY
South opens the King of Clubs. West plays the two, North the three and East takes the trick with the Ace.

There can be no advantage in holding off in this case, since West has an entry to enable the Spade finesse to be taken, and if it should fall South would be in the lead and East's Jack of Clubs could be led through. Had West not done this, King of Hearts, then East would have refused to take the trick and thus force South to give him two tricks in Clubs, or shift the lead to another suit.

East leads the nine of Hearts and takes the trick with the Jack in Dummy. The Jack of Spades is led from Dummy and on the fourth round it might do some good. North covers with the King. East takes the trick with the Ace and plays the Ace and Queen of Hearts. He then plays his Queen, ten and eight of Spades, making the last trick with the nine in Dummy.

On Dummy's thirteenth Spade and thirteenth Heart he discards the four of Diamonds and the nine of Clubs. He then has ten tricks in hand, and since game is not involved, he has the choice as to whether to take the Diamond finesse in an endeavor to make six odd, or to throw South in with a Club to force a Diamond lead in order to make six odd, or to play the Ace of Diamonds at the eleventh trick in hopes of dropping an unguarded King in South's hand.

His proper procedure depends upon the discarding that South has done while the Spades and Hearts were being played. If the probabilities are that South has retained two Clubs and one Diamond in his hand, he should play the Diamond and go up with the Ace. If South has apparently retained two Diamonds and one Club, then he should play the Club to force South to lead into his major tenace in Diamonds.

No matter what the play may have been, he should not take the Diamond finesse. The recognition of the proper principles of end play enables him to make a small slam.

Dillabough Wins Annual Hill Climb at Mount Douglas

Captures Girardeau Challenge Cup After Fine Riding Display

George Reece and Jimmy Norrington Winners of Other Two Events—1,500 People Watch Cyclists Guide Machines Up Steep Grade

With his "L" motor Harley Davidson behaving perfectly, Bill Dillabough carried off the major honors in the annual hill climb of the Victoria Motorcycle Club, held yesterday, before a crowd of about 1,500 at Mount Douglas, when he won the Paul Girardeau Challenge Cup. George Reece was second and Jimmy Norrington, last year's winner, third. In the first ride of the day, the seventy-four cubic inch class, George Reece, riding an Indian, was the victor, with Fred Diment and Denny Barracough second and third, respectively. In the forty-five cubic inch class, the Norrington boys, Jimmy and Johnny, succeeded in gaining first and second place, respectively. Les Pritch was third. All rode Indian machines. Despite the rain that fell throughout the day the rides were run off quickly and plenty of thrills and spills were watched by the crowd. As soon as the tape was cut by ex-Reeve Crouch, Gilbert Diment was off on the first ride up the grade.

Soon after, four or five of the riders had managed to clear the top of the hill with their machines the officials found it necessary to give those who went over another ride with a shorter start. George Reece was the only one in the first event who made the grade with a short start. In the event of the 45's he crowd witnessed some pretty riding and bike handling, and three or four of the boys gained the top and went over. The first rider in this class, Les Pritch, had no trouble in taking his Scout over the grade, showing much ability. The next rider, Jimmy Norrington, repeated, going straight over and riding into some bushes at the top of the hill. In their second attempt, these two again found the peak and a third ride was necessary, with a shorter start. This time Norrington was the victor, taking his bike over on all three tries. Johnny Norrington, who took second place, gained the top twice out of his three tries. During the running off of this event several spills were seen, particularly those of Dick "Pop" Shanks. In his first ride "Pop" Harley got the better of him about half way up the hill and performed all kinds of antics before coming to a stop. On his second ride "Pop" did a clever bit of handling in keeping his bike from the crowd, when, as he was taking off, the machine headed for the side of the hill where the crowd was standing. Then, after being righted again, the rear wheel spun around in the dirt, throwing its rider.

In the final event, open to all members of the club, thrills galloped when some of the more powerful bikes got away from their riders. Lionel Dickson, on his Indian "4," gave the spectators plenty to think about when his bike got the best of him at the top of the hill and turned at right angles and went into the crowd. But of the seventeen entries in this class eight of them were successful in conquering the hill from their first attempts from the long start. On his second ride in the event Jimmy Norrington experienced tough luck in the pit and one of the pistons blew off. He was the only rider that has conquered the top of the hill on every one of his rides. Bill Dillabough was an easy winner here and had no trouble in taking his machine over on each ride.

Much credit is due to the Saanich police and the following officials of the club for the excellent way in which the card was run off: Owen Fowler, referee; Joe McAllister, announcer; Lorne Green, Leo Edwards, recorders; Tom Britton, Jack Watt, tape men; Bill Lemm, Wilf Hughes, starters.

Mickey Walker Offers to Fight Sharkey or Stribling

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—Mickey Walker, fresh from his successful invasion of the heavyweight ranks by his decisive victory over Johnny Risko, tossed defiance at Jack Sharkey and W. L. "Young" Stribling tonight. The world middleweight champion, through his manager, Jack Kearns, offered to fight Sharkey for the Milk Fund in New York next month. "Mickey will box the 'Boston Gob' and will not take a cent more than Sharkey does for training expenses," Kearns said. "Stribling has been signed by the Chicago Stadium for a fight on December 12, and Mickey is ready to step into that match too, if Stribling wants to meet him."

BURRSTON'S KICK DECIDES ENCOUNTER

Two Thousand Fans See Little Halfback Score Convert for Winning Point

VANCOUVER, Nov. 10.—On a field made soggy and slippery by several days of steady rain, Meralomas, of Vancouver, proved their right to the provincial senior rugby football crown by defeating University of British Columbia, 13 to 12, in a Big Four fixture at Athletic Park today. Meralomas next meet Regina Roughriders, Prairie champions, in a two-out-of-three-game series for the Western Canadian championship. The first contest of the titular series is scheduled for here on Thursday night, with the second game on Saturday.

Meralomas wound up their season undefeated, while the students, with two losses, finished in second position. Two thousand wildly cheering fans witnessed the encounter, which provided them with the season's best contest despite field conditions. Each team held the lead on several different occasions, and it was not until late in the final quarter that a touchdown, which was converted, finally gave Meralomas the victory.

MERALOMAS TAKE LEAD
Meralomas took an early lead on a rouse for a single. The students went out in front a short time later on Latta's field goal, and made it 4 to 1 before the quarter ended when Latta punted over the line for a rouse.

On the change over, Meralomas took the offensive and got within two points of their opponents when Burraston kicked another single point. The feature of the play then led to Meralomas taking a comfortable lead. Burraston received a punt behind his own line, eluded a bevy of tacklers and streaked towards the students' goal. He finally reached centre field, eluded two more would-be tacklers and had a clear path to the goal line. He was hotly pursued by several Varsity wings, two of which finally caught up with him and brought him down on the students' five-yard line. A first down failed to gain anything, but on the second, Oakenfull, husky Meraloma middle wing, plunged through for a major score, which went unconverted. This left Meralomas leading 7 to 4.

Meralomas' lead was short-lived, however, for Hutchinson, who replaced Burraston following the latter's fumble, fumbled the ensuing kickoff as he was running it out behind his own line and a Varsity wing fell on it for a touchdown. This latter try was also unconverted. As a result, Varsity led by 9 to 7 at halftime.

In the third quarter, the students made it 11 to 7, by virtue of a safety touch.

STUDENTS MADE IT 12 TO 7
The students made it 12 to 7 soon after the final period opened on a kick to the deadline. Meralomas finally opened up a strong offensive, which, aided by Varsity fumbles and penalties to the students, carried them to the blue and gold team's four-yard line. From here Williams had little trouble in plunging over for a touchdown. This tied the score and with less than three minutes of time remaining, the fate of the game practically depended on what Burraston did with his chance to convert Williams' touchdown.

The crowd was still as Meralomas' little halfback took the ball and measured with his eye the distance from where he was standing to the goalposts. The whistle blew. He quickly dropped the ball to the ground and kicked. The ball went sailing high and straight and right between the uprights, Meralomas were ahead, 13 to 12. A late Varsity offensive was checked in promising scoring territory by the full-time whistle.

Teams:
Varsity—McQuire, Sandy, Smith, Mitchell, Hager, Peden, Willson, Jack, Hall, Farrington, Textley, Duncan, Murdoch, Tyreman, McInnis, Roote, Moore, Choat, Bolton, Steele, Wainwright, Latta, Hedreen and Perdrie.

Roy Palmer Captures Grandview Marathon

VANCOUVER, Nov. 10.—Roy Palmer added to his distance running laurels Monday by capturing the third annual Grandview Chamber of Commerce modified marathon. Palmer covered the twelve miles in 67 minutes and 7 seconds to put his name on the cup for the first time.

Tommy McGivern romped in a good second and gave the win a good race of it for the full route. N. E. Krag was third in the event. N. R. Armstrong fourth, Bob McGivern fifth, and E. Strang sixth.

Mayor W. H. Malkin started the runners off.

Mainlanders Score 3 to 2 Victory in Exhibition Soccer

Fine Display of Short Passing Game Responsible for Visitors' Win Over Locals—De Costa Turns in Great Performance

Their forward line whipping the ball from side to side with unerring judgment, and their back division playing a strong defensive game, St. Andrew's, flashy Mainlanders eleven from the Pacific Coast League, defeated Victoria's All-Star aggregation from the First Division yesterday afternoon at the Royal Athletic Park before a good crowd of fans by a 3-2 score. Despite adverse weather conditions, the Saints' front line of attack played a short passing game, a system that was responsible for their victory.

The teams were forced to play on a field covered with mud from one goal to the other, but, notwithstanding this and the occasional downpours, both displayed good soccer and the fans went home contented with the exhibition. Victoria's defence co-operated well together, and only for the fine work of Louis De Costa, goalie, and Gil Margison and Harry Leggat, in fullback positions, the score undoubtedly would have been more decisive.

WATSON SCORES
The game was still in its infancy when the locals got home the first goal of the game. After three successive onslaughts on the Saints' citadel, Watson beat Singleton, following a melee in front of the visitors' net. Watson received the leather from Mulcahy's perfect kick and made no mistake from a few feet out. St. Andrew's attacked from the kick-off, and De Costa saved beautifully from the toe of Platt by quick moving.

Barney Burns had a golden opportunity when he followed up Joe Crowe's long centre, beat Wilson and then had the goalie at his mercy. Singleton dashed from his net to meet the on-rushing Victoria centre and took the ball by throwing himself at Burns' feet. It was a daring piece of work and the crowd gave him a great hand. Watson tricked his way in close from the left wing and tealed Singleton with a hard drive which the goalie handled nicely.

ROYALS AND SAINTS BATTLE TO 3-3 TIE
Champion New Westminster Team Held to Draw in Pacific Coast Soccer Fixture

VANCOUVER, Nov. 10.—Playing under the worst soccer conditions possible, and players finding it almost impossible to get a foothold, Westminster Royals and St. Saviour's put up one of the hardest games of the season in a Pacific Coast League game at Con Jones Park this afternoon, the result being a draw of three goals each.

With the Royals short of Coulter, their star scoring forward, and Anderson, their crack fullback, they were severely handicapped. Their places were filled by Hammond, formerly of St. Saviour's, and Tom Taylor, but neither of them filled the bill adequately.

St. Saviour's were good for a win their act of a few minutes before. Crowe centred and Lakey mis-kicked. Burns beat him to the ball and only had Singleton to beat to put the local squad farther in the lead. Singleton pulled his daring slide again and blocked the ball again as Burns tried to get past. Ken Thompson cleared a dangerous St. Andrew attack, while Leggat and Margison broke up four rushes in rapid succession.

St. Andrew's first goal came when Joe Crowe fouled Donnelly just outside the restricted area as he was set to let drive. McFarlane, former Nanaimo star, and the main cog on the visitors' line-up, took the shot, which hit the crossbar and bounded over the saddest line for a goal. The score remained unchanged as the rest period arrived.

The last half saw the Saints' forwards playing pretty combination, and De Costa spent one of the busiest forty-five minutes of his youthful career on a soccer field blocking shots from all angles. His saves were brilliantly executed and the fans gave the youngster a great hand.

TWO RAPID GOALS
Donnelly made the count 2-1 when he accepted Munro's accurate pass to beat the Victoria net custodian from close range with a bullet drive. Still on the attack the visitors added their final tally five minutes later when Platt put the finishing touches on a fine and well-engineered forward rush.

Victoria fought hard during the dying moments and Pat Mulcahy made things interesting by scoring from a foul shot. With only two minutes to go, St. Andrew's held Victoria at bay and walked off the field with a fine victory.

McMillan refereed and the teams followed:
St. Andrew's—Singleton; Wilson, Lakey, Atkins, McFarlane, Alcock; Stephen, Donnelly, Munro, Platt and Wood.
Victoria—De Costa; Margison, Leggat; Thompson, Joe Crowe, Stofer, Mulcahy, Watson, Burns, John Watt and Viggers.

BRIDGE'S GOAL GIVES FIVE C'S 3 TO 2 WIN

Les Bridge's goal late in the second half gave the Five C's juvenile soccer team a 3-2 victory over Saanich Bude, yesterday morning, at Beacon Hill Park. The game was a replay of Saturday's draw. Roberts scored for the C's and West for Saanich in the first half. Hope put the winners one up early in the last stanza, but West equalized shortly after. Just before time, Bridge broke through for the winning goal. Spence-Matthews refereed.

A.Y.P.A. CONFERENCE TO MEET ON SATURDAY

Second Annual Gathering of Young Anglicans From Three Coast Cities to Gather Here

The Anglican Young People's Association of British Columbia will hold its second annual conference in Victoria during the coming weekend. The programme will begin with the arrival of the fifty Vancouver and ten New Westminster delegates on Saturday afternoon's boat, and will conclude with their departure by the midnight boat on Sunday. Two of the major incidents being the address which Bishop Schofield will give on Saturday evening, following the annual banquet of the young people, when his subject will be "The Lambeth Conference; and the round table conference on Sunday afternoon at the Memorial Hall. The conference will not be entirely serious in character, however. On arrival here on Saturday afternoon the delegates will immediately be taken for a drive round the city; and in the early evening all will meet round the banquet table at the Memorial Hall, with a dance later, preceding the Bishop's address.

On Sunday morning the delegates will attend early celebration of Communion, and later will attend service at St. John's Church. The delegates will be entertained at luncheon in the individual local members' homes. After the round table conference in the afternoon the conference will attend evening service at Christ Church Cathedral.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

BREAD IS A GOOD FOOD

A baker in a certain large city has been advertising his bread as the "staff of life." It would seem from the number of individuals who are doing without bread, or using very little of it, that they have decided to throw away the staff and get along on something else, some other kind of food. I believe this is a mistake, not that I am trying to help out the farmers by having my readers eat more bread. As a matter of fact, one writer tells us that if every man, woman and child would eat two more bushels of wheat, during the year that there would be no surplus to be sent to other countries.

But bread is really the staff of life for many nations, and it is only because we can command such a variety of foods from the markets of the world that we are turning away to some extent from bread.

Now bread is not a perfect food; in fact, there is a perfect food except perhaps milk for little children. However, bread does contain that rich food—starch—which is our most important food in producing energy.

Also it is always a "safe" food in that if chewed properly, fresh or stale, it will never cause any intestinal trouble.

Now I have no objection to the use of special foods, because when

GARY COOPER STARRED

Origin of Sourdough Explained by Man Who Helped Make Dominion Theatre Picture

The Alaskan "sourdough" won his name from his inventive genius as a baker, according to one of the members of the original clan who assisted Paramount with the filming of Rex Beach's classic story, "The Sourdough." The man is Robert Harris, friend of Beach during the gold rush days in Nome, and who still operates extensive mining properties in Northern Alaska.

"We mixed our dough in large batches for reasons of economy," Harris, who went to Nome in 1901, recalls. "Using only flour and water, we kneaded up a big ball of it, which we wrapped in a cloth and carried in our packs. Of course the stuff soured. We wanted it to. For by pulling off a wad of it, mixing it with soda, and setting it by the fire overnight, we had a fine, fluffy batter for hot cakes or biscuits in the morning. And that's how the 'sourdough' got his name."

Harris, whose dredges handle many thousands of cubic yards of gold sand every season, spends his winters in Los Angeles and the late Summer months in Alaska. He was closely associated with Director Edwin Carewe during the production of "The Sourdough" as a modern all-talking film. With Gary Cooper starred, it will show today and Wednesday only at the Dominion Theatre.

COLUMBIA "The Battle of Paris" is an all-talking and singing feature that pictures the lighter side of the Great War and depicts the soldiers of all the Allied armies in search of relaxation from the grim business of fighting. Gertrude Lawrence, the popular musical comedy star, is featured with Charles Ruggles in this novel picture now showing at the Columbia Theatre.

COLISEUM "Raise the Roof," the THEATRE British feature, is now at the Coliseum Theatre. This picture is Miss Balfour's first attempt before the microphone and let it be said at once that in the opinion of everyone who has seen the picture, "Raise the Roof" proves her to be an unqualified success. Now that the screen has found its voice, she is given opportunities of displaying her unusual versatility in a manner in which she was hitherto totally unable.

DEPARTMENT OF TRADE AND COMMERCE OTTAWA, CANADA

November 8th, 1930.

To Canadian Manufacturers,
In Every Line of Business.

Remember the Golden Rule!

For some weeks now I have been urging consumers in every part of Canada to buy your products in preference to imported products. I have tried to make it quite clear to them that, in their own interest, it's the common sense thing to do.

Now if it is sound common sense that your fellow Canadians should support you, in your efforts to increase and to improve your production, isn't it also sound common sense that you, in the purchase of your materials, should support other Canadian producers who are trying to increase and to improve their production?

It's a poor rule that won't work both ways! When others wrench themselves out of life-long habits to do something that will help you, don't you agree that it's up to you to reciprocate in whatever way you can?

So let me ask you very frankly—are you co-operating in this campaign as fully as you might co-operate? When you buy materials and supplies, do you always make a conscientious effort to find some Canadian producer who can give you what will fill the bill? Conceding for the sake of argument that there are certain things you must import, because they cannot be produced in Canada, are your reasons for importing other things that do not fall within that category such that you would have no hesitation in making them public?

No fair-minded person is ever going to reproach you for buying imported materials and supplies when you can advance perfectly valid reasons for doing so. For example, if, after making diligent search, you were unable to find a single Canadian producer who could make delivery in the quality, and in the quantity, and within the time necessary to meet your requirements, and at a price you could afford to pay, that would be sufficient reason for your giving your order to a foreign producer.

And yet it hardly seems like playing the game, does it? It's equivalent to saying to the small Canadian producer—"To qualify for my business, you've got to show me that you can meet your big foreign competitor on every point—quality, quantity, time and price—otherwise you don't get it!"

If every Canadian consumer had always taken that stand, and stuck to it, many a man who is a successful Canadian manufacturer to-day would have lost his entire stake without ever having made a sale! But despite the competition he was up against, and the handicaps under which he had to labour, he made sales because there were enough Canadian consumers willing to see to it that he got his start.

So I ask you, aren't there times when you could well afford to show some Canadian producer just that little extra consideration that would be the means of starting him on his way to bigger and better business? If he cannot give you the quantity you want, within the time you want it, the reason probably is that you and other Canadian manufacturers have never given him enough business to warrant him enlarging the modest little plant he began with. If he cannot deliver you out of stock the exact quality you want, might he not soon be able to do so with the patronage that you and others might give him, by enabling him to keep pace with his big foreign competitor in bidding for skilled labour, in trying out new processes, and equipping himself with new devices as they are brought out? And if his price is a little high, just ask yourself if the preservation of your business makes it absolutely necessary for you to buy in the cheapest market?

As I write this I have before me two competitive articles, both produced in Canada. They sell to the same class of people, at the same price, and are apparently on a parity so far as quality is concerned. Both are made from the same kind of material, but whereas the material in one is 100 per cent Canadian, the material in the other is 100 per cent imported. The producer of the article made from Canadian material admits that he could make a little more profit for himself by using imported material, but he won't do it—he says he doesn't need to! The producer of the article made from imported material, while contending that the exigencies of his business make it necessary for him to buy in the cheapest market, only uses that as an excuse to swell his profits!

If you want the "Produced in Canada" movement to be a real success—to bear abundant fruit—remember the Golden Rule, and do unto others as you would have others do unto you! Don't assume that a thing is not now procurable in Canada, just because it wasn't when you first started importing it! Why not take us into your confidence regarding all your importations, and see if we cannot help you to locate suitable Canadian sources of supply?

Very sincerely yours,

A. H. Stevens
Minister of Trade and Commerce.

Will Lecture Tonight On Northern Missions

Miss Eva Hasell, who for some years past has been directing the work of the church caravans and Sunday school by post vans in the northern districts of Western Canada, will give a public lecture, with illustrations of her work and experiences, in the Memorial Hall tonight at 8 o'clock. Miss Hasell's work has grown tremendously and now comprises fourteen vans engaged in visiting children and families in the isolated districts. All those interested in this great work in the pioneer districts of Western Canada should not miss the opportunity to hear Miss Hasell's vivid description of the country and her work. Admission is free. A collection will be taken, to be devoted toward the expenses of this work.

MISSION TO LEPERS

The local auxiliary to the Mission to Lepers held a very successful meeting at the home of the secretary-treasurer, Miss Helen Henderson, 335 Moss Street, recently, when representatives from a number of the churches were present. Mrs. Purves-Smith gave a report of her visit to the leper colony on Ben-tin Island. The friends present brought a large number of suitable articles, which are to be packed and sent to the Fushan Leper Home, in Korea. Contributions in money were also made.

Through the generosity of one individual the auxiliary will be able to report one of the most successful years since the branch was organized. The appeal for these needy people meets with a generous response on the part of many who realize the deplorable conditions under which the average leper has to live. It was agreed that the annual meeting of the auxiliary be held in the early part of the new year. Mr. Thomas Humphries, local president of the auxiliary, presided at the gathering.

Radical agitators are blamed for a great number of the many strikes in Spain this year.

TRAGIC CLIMAX TO DREAMS OF SHIP'S MASTER

Lonely Skipper Bereft of

Poisonous Reptile

GAVE LIFE IN EFFORT TO SAVE RENEFACTORY

By ANGELO MACCAGGIO
(Copyright, 1930, by the North American Newspaper Alliance)

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The Land's End hove last night into port after a quiet voyage from Singapore. It was the moment for which David Morton, the skipper, had been waiting twenty-seven years. A tall, spare figure, he stood quietly on the bridge of his ship on the crawl through the busy New York Harbor and waited until she was warped into her Hoboken dock. His orders issued languidly from his pallid lips. Not a tremor of excitement shook him, and this after his first glimpse of New York, his home town, in almost three decades. With the ship at rest, he went below.

The Land's End was in port four days. Yesterday she cleared for Liverpool. From Liverpool she sailed for the South Seas. It may be years before she returns to New York, but in her four days here the captain never left the ship, rarely left his cabin.

It was really an incredible performance until Grimes told me the story of what had happened to change the man so profoundly. We hurried in the fore part of the ship, almost directly under Morton's cabin. We could hear his footsteps occasionally and even the creaking of his chair. Grimes, ordinary seaman under Morton for fifteen years, spoke in hushed tones. If the captain had overheard the retelling of his chair, Grimes, ordinary seaman under Morton for fifteen years, spoke in hushed tones. If the captain had overheard the retelling of his chair, Grimes, ordinary seaman under Morton for fifteen years, spoke in hushed tones.

A short time ago, Grimes said, a monsoon, sweeping in from the sea, wrecked a Malay's forest home near Singapore. Morton was marooned near by and saw the accident. Plying "The Malay's" destination, he took him and his daughter, a saucy thirteen-year-old minx, aboard the Land's End. The girl's mother had been killed in the storm.

WERE HER SLAVES
Her real name was long and incongruous for such a one as she, so the men christened her Arrica (native girl) in token of her stimulating spirits. The death of her mother weighed upon her for a few days, but she was a child with such a glint in her soul as no tears could long dim. "Besides," said Grimes, "they don't seem to feel them things the way we do." She was a long, slender, brown creature, with hair like black smoke and eyes as bright and brown as new pennies, and the men loved her. From the mess boy to Captain Morton they were her slaves.

Arrica probably meant much more to Captain Morton than to anyone else on board. For twenty-seven years he had been knocking about the South Seas, leading the lonely, purposeless life of a sailor far from home. In his fifteenth year came this girl he could look upon as his own daughter, and he made great plans for her future.

PLANNED FOR FUTURE
The Land's End was scheduled to leave for New York on September 28. Morton decided to bring the girl and her father with him, settle them in Brooklyn, send her to school and bring her up as an American. Arrica greeted this plan with shrill cries of joy, and the father was not far behind in enthusiasm. Morton further planned to get a command that would not take him far from home.

On the morning of the twenty-eighth, Arrica and Morton went for a farewell visit to her native jungle. They walked gaily through luxuriant brush, laughed together at chattering monkeys and macaws. Suddenly a king cobra, deadliest of snakes, reared up in their path. Not a sound to warn them. For a single, terrible instant it hung motionless in midair, preparing for the kill. But the girl's quick eyes had seen it before Morton. With a half yell, half sob, she flung herself on it.

RACE AGAINST DEATH
The snake slithered off, somewhat shaken by her weight. The captain sat up smiling. The captain, stunned, watched her. He saw a tiny, round blue circle on her shoulder where the cobra's fangs had cut through. He tore her dress and slashed at the wound with his pocket knife. The girl looked at him uncomplainingly, a fixed smile on her face. Already the poison was making her stupid.

Then a race against death began. The captain, Arrica in his arms, ran wildly for the ship. Headlong he crashed through the brush, knocking against trees, stumbling, falling. Arrica's shoulder began to swell and turn blue. The agony was more than she could stand. She screamed and writhed, and it was all Morton could do to hold on to her with his panic-stricken, nerveless hands.

But all the running in the world could not stop the poison from coursing through her veins. She was dead before they cleared the jungle.

LIKE WALKING CORPSES
"It made him sick," whispered Grimes. "I took us all rather hard, but I thought it would kill him. I heard him say to her father, 'I'm fifty. You might say I've had most of my life lived. But she was just beginning. And to think she threw it all away just like that to save an old bag of bones like me. I wonder what made her do that.' The old man just looks at him and never says a word. The two are like walking corpses."

A man took a hard tumble and his companion helped him up. "How did you happen to fall, Tom?" he asked.
Tom answered: "Notwithstanding!"
The other was still laughing when he reached home, and his wife asked him the cause of his merriment.

"Tom's a funny chap," he explained. "When he slipped on the pavement coming home I asked him how it happened, and, quick as a flash, he answered, 'Nevertheless!'"
"You don't see it now," he added, "but you will when you think it over."

ORDER BEING RESTORED

It is quite possible to report another week of basic, if not dramatic, progress abroad. Generally speaking, it may be said without fear of successful contradiction that in those parts of the world where disorder and threats of chaos existed a month ago, quietness and order for the most part now prevail. Moreover, fear of the rise of Communism, radicalism and revolutionary forces generally to places of power have greatly diminished. It is understood that matters that have to do with reparations, interrelated debts and the like, are actively under consideration by those who are charged with responsibility for these matters, and it would appear that a distinctly better understanding among the various contending parties has now been achieved. There can be no question that progress of a basic sort here would be of the utmost benefit to world business generally. It is obvious that such selling as the election returns have generated comes in a market that is pretty well liquidated, says James H. Clews, of Henry Clews & Co., N.Y., and he continues: "It is also clear that this selling is having the effect on prices it does, simply for the reason that the market is so thin that any appreciable selling or buying orders are almost at once reflected in the price level. What ever else may be said about this situation, it remains true that with each succeeding decline in values, increasingly attractive bargains appear among sound stocks."

EARNING DIVIDENDS
It would be exceedingly foolish to suppose that the leading American corporations and the major American industries are not at some reasonably near date in the future going to revive and again to show appreciable profits to be distributed to shareholders. Indeed, a very substantial list of such corporations are even today earning their dividends, and with very large cash surpluses now being carried are likely to maintain current dividends. These basic factors ought to be, and in point of fact are, being borne carefully in mind by investors with good judgment, who continue to pick up desirable stocks when pressed for sale.

Are You Letting the Chance of Securing $100 a Month Slip By?

There will always be people who will prefer to let the future take care of itself. They think they will get along somehow. True they see people who have become dependent on friends or relatives for a living and having a very rough time of it. But they think such an unpleasant fate couldn't happen to them. Of course not! And yet, what are they doing to prevent it?

Very few people can put by sufficient money for emergencies. Something they "want" always comes along to wipe out their savings. Money that is easily got at is almost never kept.

There must be some way so that their savings can be protected, even from the saver, and there should be also a provision for financial help in case of an emergency.

Just such a helpful and workable plan for providing you with a safe, sure income has been devised by the Canada Life. It will create an immediate income for your dependents should you die before the time comes when you plan to retire. But it's a real thought is to make you independent of friends or relatives, or the whim of an employer, when you get on in years and your earning power begins to lessen.

It means an effort, of course, for the person who undertakes to be independent, but it is better to realize the facts about this vital matter now before it is too late. Our plan is already helping thousands of others along the road to safety and comfort in later life.

If you are a thrifty, forward-looking Canadian citizen, determined to look to no one but yourself for your support, we suggest you fill out and mail the coupon below. It will bring information by mail without any obligation on your part.

THIS COUPON WILL BRING BOOKLET BY MAIL

CANADA LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY, Toronto, Ont.

I would like you to send by mail, without obligation on my part, your booklet "Getting the Income You Want."

ADDRESS

Two men were to take part in a boxing match, and surreptitiously each backed himself to lose the fight. During the progress of the bout one accidentally hit his opponent a light tap on the face, whereupon the recipient of the blow laid down and the referee proceeded to count him out. The other man was in a quandry, but just with the call of "nine" a magnificent idea came to him. He rushed to the postle man and kicked him, and was instantly disqualified.

Cross-Bred Foxes Enjoy Rapid Rise in Popularity

(Contributed)

The breeding of the properly-marked cross fox is an interesting problem to the fox farmer. From 1900 to 1906 a somewhat serious situation faced the farmer who experimented with the cross blood which formed the foundation strain for the first foxes bred in captivity, and in 1914 it was fully established by the pioneer breeders that it was possible to breed a species of silver fox without any throw-back to the red or crossbred animal.

At this time a provincial association was formed on Prince Edward Island to pedigree and register silver foxes; and later, in 1920 and 1921, a Federal registration of silver foxes for the same purpose was established by the Dominion Government.

The industry was then started in a small way in every province of the Dominion, and by rules of registration no member was allowed to own red or crossbred foxes. Thus the crossbred fox was practically eliminated in Canada, except by a few owners who had never joined the association.

SHORTAGE OF PELTS

It was not until 1925 that the fur markets of the world found themselves without any quantity of fox pelts to offer to the public, while the fur trade still demanded this type of pelt.

Alfred Fraser, one of the world's greatest fur men, after making a trip through Canada and the United States, pointed out that there would always be a demand for this type of fur. He advised the farmer again to take up the breeding of cross foxes and to try for prominent markings, very dark over the nose and shoulders, showing a distinct golden color along the sides, and with a large percentage of silver over the loins and rump.

A number of fur farmers started to study the problem of how this type could be bred.

ALASKAN FOXES

A prominent Canadian firm which was not governed by the rules of the association bought a large shipment of Alaskan silver foxes. It was the owner's purpose at that time to endeavor to improve his silver strain, but, to his amazement, the effect of crossing these foxes with his standard-bred silvers was a marked predominance of dark crosses.

The news spread rapidly among fox farmers, who believed that they had a solution to their problem, and Alaskan foxes, in consequence, were at a premium, it being thought that any breed of Alaskan fox would give the same results. It was found, however, the breeding of a third or fourth generation of Alaskan foxes in captivity did not bring satisfactory results when these were crossed with standard-bred silvers.

MAKING EXPERIMENTS

During the last three years the leading fox farmers of Canada are endeavoring by cross-breeding of the progeny of the Northern and Eastern fox to establish a type of dark cross which, like the silver fox, will reproduce true to color; and considerable progress has been reported by various breeders and experimental stations.

Nevertheless, the general opinion prevails that it will take some time to establish a cross fox which will always reproduce true to type. Needless to say, it is a most interesting phase of the fox industry, and those who are fortunate enough to establish this type of fox will be well rewarded in their endeavors.

HONEY CROP IN B.C. INCREASES

Over Million Pounds, Valued at $228,675, Is Current Estimate

MUST REGISTER HIVES

Estimated value of the honey crop in British Columbia this year is placed at $228,675, for a yield of 1,143,375 pounds, by officials of the provincial Department of Agriculture. Beeswax, an addition to the value of $5,000 will be produced from 20,737 hives which, with their equipment, have a capital value approximating $518,524. The annual output is increasing.

Production by districts for the year is estimated as follows: Vancouver Island, Gulf Islands and Howe Sound, 106,175 pounds of honey, 660 apiaries; Greater Vancouver, 69,010 pounds, 284 apiaries; Lower Fraser Valley, 249,800 pounds, 633 apiaries; Upper Fraser Valley and Chilliwack, 112,805 pounds, 305 apiaries; Okanagan, Shuswap and Thompson Valleys, 427,480 pounds, 593 apiaries; Kootenays, 134,005 pounds, 214 apiaries; Central British Columbia, 22,050 pounds, 27 apiaries. Total, 1,143,375 pounds, from 2,843 apiaries, maintaining 20,737 hives, with an average yield of fifty-five pounds of honey per hive.

Under amendments to the Apiaries Act, passed in 1929, all beekeepers must register the land on which their apiaries are situated. A fine not exceeding $50 may be imposed in the event of neglect to register.

The department has recently issued a last call for the registration of apiaries, and prompt steps are to be taken against wilful neglect to register in future. An outbreak of foul brood, which is believed to have crossed from south of the border into British Columbia has led to a tightening up of the regulations in the interests of the honey industry of the province generally.

LIFE UNDERWRITERS' PAST PRESIDENT TO GIVE ADDRESS HERE

"High Lights on the International Convention That Should Inspire the New Underwriter to Greater Efficiency" will be the subject of an address by John T. McCay at the next meeting of the local underwriters, to be held in Spencer's private dining-room on Thursday at 12 o'clock noon. McCay is a past president of the Dominion Life Underwriters' Association and is also honorary life president of the Victoria underwriters. The recent convention held in the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, was the largest of its kind in the history of life insurance. More than 2,000 registered delegates were in attendance.

ANTI-VIVISECTION SOCIETY

At the recent board meeting of the local Anti-Vivisection Society, presided over by G. B. Killo, reference was made to complaints received from parents of school children. These matters will be referred to the Minister of Education.

The National Society in America reported a number of new organizations during the year, and expressed its willingness to assist in the formation of new societies wherever required.

Included in coming events in behalf of funds a bridge party will be held on Friday, November 21, at the New Thought Hall, Port Street. Those wishing to reserve tables are asked to telephone Mrs. Bonavia, E. 0555.

Mr. Killo, who had acted as delegate to the State Health Insurance Commission, reported having spoken to the society's resolution in this connection.

"Why don't you buy a bicycle, if you're a neighbor? You would find it useful in going back and forth to your work."

"Faith," said Pat. "I'd as soon walk afoot as ride afoot."
